FOREST LAWN TO RECEIVE REMAINS OF WALLY REID MARTYR TO NARCOTIC FIGHT

Funeral Procession to Start at Hollywood and End in Glendale's Cemetery, Where Body of Moving Picture Star Will Be Cremated

TO ARRIVE IN GLENDAL ABOUT 5 O'CLOCK

Services in Los Angeles Are Marked by the Elks' Ritual and Congregational Church; Thousands in Funeral Procession

The remains of Wally Reid, beloved movie actor, victim of the narcotic trade, martyr to a heroic fight against the habit, will rest this evening at Forest Lawn cemetery, Glendale.

At the Glendale cemetery the remains will be cremated, at the request of the family.

Although the funeral was not expected to leave Los Angeles until after 3 o'clock, it was expected at the cemetery that the procession would not reach Glendale before 5 o'clock, because of its size.

GLENDAL INDIANS IS NEW BALL TEAM IN THE CITY

To Play First Game Sunday at Park and San Fernando Road

A baseball club is being organized in Glendale, which will be known as the Glendale "Indians" and will be under the management of S. Bell. Several promising players, all local boys, are turning out for the purpose of putting a good team in the field, and every indication appears very favorable for a successful winning combination.

The following is a list of the players, several of whom appeared on the Glendale diamond last year: Pitchers, Harris, Heidler, Bredbury, Kulp; Infielders, Acosta, Wilson, Johnson, Helwig, Bell; Catchers, McIntosh, Peterson; Outfielders, Griffin, Flanders, Long.

The manager wishes it understood that John Cobb is not connected in any way with the club this year, neither will it be responsible for debts contracted by Cobb through his team of last year.

The first game this season will be played on the diamond at Park avenue and San Fernando road, tomorrow, Sunday, January 21. This ground will be used until another field is located. The game scheduled for Sunday will be Mercantile All-Stars vs. Glendale Indians.

Everybody is invited to come out and give the home boys a rousing greeting on the beginning of a new season.

PAYSON HAYWARD
ELECTED LEGION
COMMITTEEMAN
Succeeded Charles B. Guthrie on the Executive Board

At the meeting of the Glendale post, American Legion, held Friday night, Payson Hayward was unanimously elected a member of the executive committee to serve for the ensuing year in place of Charles B. Guthrie, resigned.

By ROBERT A. DONALDSON
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—"Whom the gods love, they also would destroy."

Before the simple catastrophe the kings and queens of filmdom passed today in final honor to one of their own who had fought and lost, but saved himself.

The body of Wally Reid, film idol, rested in state on a flower-drenched dais in the First Congregational church.

"Ave et vale"—hail and farewell.

Under leaden skies that mourned so murmured those who passed in slow file before the bier.

Humble folk that loved him turned from the darkened seats of theaters toward the grey, half-light of the church, where at last he lay at rest in body—less real to them than in the fitting lights and shadows of the screen.

Honor and adoration were told by the banks of wreaths which half smothered the catastrophe, for they bore the royal names of moviedom. Scattered among them were the single flowers from friends he never knew.

The voice of Hollywood was silenced as the cavalcade to Wally's bier began. Directors had dropped the megaphones, and carpenters had laid aside their tools. Under the skies, sombre and dull, the great sets of the pictures of tomorrow stood empty and deserted, lost in a void of silence, while the famed puppets went to stalk about their mingled with the unnamed throng before the altar of the dead.

This afternoon the public ceremony will be ended by the reading of the beautiful and solemn service of the Episcopal church by the Rev. Neal Dodd of St. Mary's Church of the Angels—Hollywood's "little church around the corner."

Following the solemn words of the sectarian ceremony, the Elks will pronounce over the body the last majestic rites of their order.

The casket will then be placed in the hands of the active pall bearers, William Desmond, William S. Hart, Edward Brady, Noah Beery, Eugene Pallette and Benjamin Frazee. It will be escorted by the honorary pall bearers, Jack Holt, Sam Wood, Theodore Roberts, Conrad Nagel, Antonio Moreno and Victor H. Clark.

Attended by only the near and dear, it will be taken to Forest Lawn cemetery where in conformance to Wally's expressed wish, his body will be cremated.

At home, while the last rites are being performed, two troubled children will play with their dolls and tricycles.

"Bill" aged 6, Wally's son and pal, and Betty, 3, the adopted daughter, will not be taken to the funeral.

They only know that "daddy" has gone on a long, long journey, and may never come back.

"Daddy is on location," Bill voluntarily told a friend who came to the Reid home this morning. But he does not know that it is a "location" where many go, but none return.

"Dust unto dust—"
Although his figure may leap and smile from the silvered screen through years to come, the body of Wally Reid will rest with the dust of the infinite tonight.

Singer Sewing Machine Sings the Glendale Press Praise

The Singer Sewing Machine Shop deals in sewing machines. They recognize the power of the Press Classified columns as a medium for marketing and selling their goods.

"Sold a machine an hour after my ad, appeared in your paper," said Miss Armstrong, local manager for the Singer people, "with prospects of disposing of several more today. I heartily endorse your classified columns as result getters."

L. W. CHOBIE GIVES THANKS TO THOSE WHO HELPED HIM

Man Who Made Glendale Famous With Floats, Divides His Credit

In a communication to the people of Glendale, addressed through the Glendale Daily Press, L. W. Chobie, who designed Glendale's victorious floats, including our Peacock, divides his credits:

"I take this opportunity to sincerely thank the people of Glendale for the substantial appreciation of my endeavors. It makes me glad to know that my efforts have pleased the people, and since I have been boosting for Glendale for 18 years, it comes natural for me to want to do anything I can.

"While it is true these things are not accomplished without effort on my part, still I feel that I do not deserve all the credit, for it was not for the hearty cooperation of many other Glendale boosters, it would not be possible for me or any one else to make such a complete success of an undertaking of this kind.

"I wish to personally thank all of those who were interested in the success of the Glendale float, and who showed their interest in many ways. I regret that I cannot mention all of the names of those who took an active part, and many others who showed their willingness. In this respect, Glendale is just a little different from all other cities, and this accounts for her phenomenal success, which has made her the fastest growing city in America.

"One example of the true Glendale spirit was shown by Mr. Taylor, of the Moon agency, who insisted upon donating the space and conveniences in his garage for building the float.

"Another example is Mr. Jesse Smith of the Ford agency, who always comes to the front, and went to the expense of especially equipping a Fordson tractor with rubber tires upon which the float was built and also was the motive power. Without this Fordson tractor it would have been impossible for me to secure the effectiveness of my design. He also went to a great deal of expense in dismantling a Ford touring car (equipping it with new tires) upon which the toy was built. With his well known smile he donated all of this for over a month.

"Thank you and HURRAH FOR GLENDAL!"
(signed) "L. W. CHOBIE."

N. M. THIEVES ARE RETURNED FOR TRIAL

Men Who Robbed Store in Tucumcara Are Claimed by Sheriff

W. Robertson and W. Chappell, who were arrested by Glendale police on a charge of having robbed a men's furnishing store in Tucumcara, N. M., were started on their return trip to that place this morning to answer to a charge of burglary, according to the Glendale police.

Sheriff Ernest Simpson of Quay county, N. M., arrived in Glendale last night for the purpose of escorting the boys back to the scene of the crime.

Hotel Architects to Meet Committee

Architects Selkirk and Lindley, with offices in Los Angeles, will meet tonight with the hotel committee of the Glendale Advancement association at 612 East Broadway. The purpose of the session will be to consider further the details of the construction of the hotel at the corner of Glendale avenue and Broadway.

COMMUNITY GLENDAL MUSIC SET FOR MONDAY CITRUS

Service Institute to Start at High at 7:30 in the Evening

TWO HOURS WEEKLY

General Public Is Invited to Join and Help in Program

Glendale's first Community Service song leaders' music institute will begin Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the high school under the direction of Alexander Stewart of National Community Service, and continue for one hour each Monday and Friday night for five weeks. The purpose of the institute is to train volunteer leaders from all churches, clubs and organizations to lead in singing so that community singing may be included in their programs if so desired.

An invitation is extended the general public to attend. A. L. Baird, chairman of the Glendale Community Service music committee, is desirous of a large attendance being present at the institute.

Business men and women who like music, who feel that they have an aptitude and can help, if they cannot actually lead in the promotion of songs, are particularly invited to attend.

The following people are being interviewed by the music committee, which includes: A. L. Baird, Alexander Mitchell, Mrs. W. A. Kulp, Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, Frances Henry and H. V. Henry, and many have indicated their desire to take part in the institute work. This committee has not been able to interview a large number of other people who they would like to have take part. Whether you have received a special invitation to attend the institute or not, the committee wishes all to feel that they are invited and welcome to attend: E. P. Hayward, Preston Hanning, William Bode, Mrs. H. V. Henry, Ole N. Andersen, Dr. A. L. Bryant, D. Ripley Jackson, Roy L. Kent, C. E. Ringquist, Norman Badger, Mr. Chappell, H. W. Yarkick, Owen Emery, Blake Franklin, Mrs. C. W. Hellyer, F. J. W. Henry, Mrs. Wm. Herman West, Dr. Mary, Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mayor Robinson, J. T. Rowley, Mrs. C. L. Peckham, Dr. Buck, Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, O. E. Von Oven, Mrs. W. A. Kulp, Dr. C. R. Lusby, Mrs. John Cotton, C. D. Lusby, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Dr. Lucas, Mrs. Helen Sawyer, Frank Booth, Dr. John Anderson, Claude Putnam, Edward Albright, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Bosserman, James O'Neill, Farrell, Howard Brown and others.

J. A. Lewis, president of the Song Leaders' Association of Los Angeles, led the community singing at the high school P. T. A. "Fathers' Night" program last night. This association numbers between 60 and 70 members and was organized and trained at a song leaders' institute conducted by Alexander Stewart. Successful institutes have been held in many of the important cities all along the Pacific Coast under the direction of Mr. Stewart and some splendid work accomplished. During his stay in Glendale at the expense of the National Community Service organization Mr. Stewart will call to the attention of the musicians and music lovers of the community for suggestions regarding the development of community music.

The program will be featured by a pageant of music in costume, and there will be addresses by Mrs. Eva Wheeler, state president, and other state officers. Committees on arrangements were appointed by the president, Mrs. Ruby Smart.

At the close of the meeting, delicious candy was served by the hostess.

The next regular meeting of the local society will be held with Mrs. L. E. Meyers on Central avenue.

CERRITOS PICTURE SHOW MAKES BIG SUCCESS
The motion picture show and program given for the benefit of the Cerritos avenue Parent-Teacher association at the school Friday afternoon and evening was well attended, the auditorium being filled at both performances. The films, "Cinderella" and "The Story of the Willow Plate" were shown. Mr. Anderson of the high school gave several dramatic readings, and Miss Ruth Goldsborough of the high school played several piano numbers. The remainder of the program was volunteered by the children of the school, who gave various numbers between reels.

Mrs. Roy Biddlecom was chairman in charge of the entertainment.

REV. TINNING IS HONORED BY HIS FRIENDS

Following the supper at the Glendale Presbyterian Church for teachers and officers of the Sunday school, served Thursday evening at the church, Rev. Louis Tinning, assistant pastor, was presented with a handsome cake decorated with candles and flowers which had been baked by Mrs. J. A. Newton and which was bestowed in celebration of his birthday. He also received from the men of the church a Scofield bible.

It pleasantly crowned the program of the evening as Mr. Tinning made a little speech in response voicing his appreciation of the remembrances and his pleasure in the work in which he is engaged.

The supper was prepared and served by the W. J. Smith Circle.

DUBLIN, Jan. 20.—A plot to tunnel into Mount Joy prison from a nearby house and release the Irish political prisoners held there was frustrated today by Free State forces.

Dwight Stephenson Puts on a Little Extra Dog

The canines of Glendale recognize a real friend when they see one. Through some unknown source a poor little doglet learned the address of Councilman Dwight Stephenson 327 West Cypress street, yesterday, and straightway he made a "bee line" toward the given address.

Dwight met the little fellow with open arms. He took him in and gave him a "knockdown" to a good big feed, for which the dog was duly appreciative. He later placed the animal in the safe-keeping of the Glendale police department.

Incidentally, Dwight has removed the nailmarks from the gatepost.

BUILDING PERMITS TOUCH $802,221 FOR FIRST 19 DAYS OF THE NEW YEAR

Exceeds Last Year's Record for All of January by More Than a Quarter of a Million Already With One-third of Month to Go

TEN MORE DAYS TO REACH $2,000,000 MARK

Many Big Operations Not Yet Under Permit, Are Confidently Expected to Raise the Total for Month to the Predicted Amount

The permits issued by the Glendale building department since January 1 leaped up to $802,221 this morning, bringing the $2,000,000 mark, which was set for January, within a possibility. The permits issued yesterday amounted to $21,050.

With approximately a million dollars in permits already in January and the prospects of a wonderful month during February, it looks as though Glendale will get a mighty fine start for 1923.

The total to date is already $290,000 over the record for January, 1922, which in itself was a record month for the city, being $512,155.

The permits issued up to noon today were as follows:
G. W. Pierce, 305 1/2 Maple, 5 rooms and garage, $3,000.
George C. Calvert, 800 East Garfield, 4 rooms and garage, 1,500.
R. Paul, 1401 South Glendale avenue, gas filling station, 2,000.
Mrs. Hannis L. Brown, 1057 San Rafael, garage, 200.
Mrs. Curtis Moore, 462 West California, addition, 500.
Hayward, 615 W. Wilson, 5 rooms and garage, 4,000.
John Rathburn, 612 Alexander, 5 rooms and garage, 3,900.
A. Hezmalhalch, 533 West Wilson, 8-room duplex and garage, 6,500.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO STAGE BIG PROGRAM

Mrs. Boyer to Read Paper on European Travels and Experiences

The program secured for the regular monthly social meeting of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club, which will be held next Tuesday evening at the clubhouse, 126 Santa Mary land, will be of exceptional interest and should draw a large attendance.

Mrs. H. R. Boyer will read a paper describing her experiences last summer during a European trip and her impressions of conditions there.

Cornet numbers will be played by Ivan Dow, with his sister at the piano.

Violin numbers have been promised by a Glendale artist, and following these events, members will be called upon for a program of stunts illustrating their respective professions or lines of business. These can be given in groups or singly, and it is believed will prove amusing and instructive.

The club is growing rapidly with new members being enrolled at every meeting. These are being especially urged to attend and get acquainted with the personnel and the work of the organization.

PRESIDENT FEELS MUCH BETTER
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—President Harding, feeling much better today, hopes to go for a short drive this afternoon, leaving his room for the first time since his confinement last Tuesday.

The president's fever has abated and his condition in general is much improved, Dr. Sawyer reported today. However, his physician insisted that he remain away from his office for a day or two longer.

W. B. HOWARD MAKES 'GOOD SUGGESTION'

President of Glendale
Building & Loan Urges
Newcomers to Register

W. B. Howard, president of the Glendale Building and Loan association, offers a suggestion that sounds very good, and will doubtless result in many people taking advantage of his offer. The matter of registering newcomers is one that should work well for everyone concerned, and every business man, at least in Glendale, to say nothing of people who have come here lately from the east, should be interested in locating the "folks from back home." In speaking of his plan Mr. Howard says:

"A very great number of the present residents of the city of Glendale have come here to make their home within the last two years. Most of these have come from other states. Many have come to California because some of their friends were here before them. Others have come because of the call of the sunny climate and other attractions. Many more people are coming, and they are coming from everywhere."

"With so many people from other states now here or on their way, it would not be unreasonable if one were to suggest the possibility that among this number there might be many who would know one another or who know friends or acquaintances of another were there only a way for them to learn of one another's presence or residence here. Similarity of name does not always suggest anything as there are so many people with similar names. The population of this city is too great to permit of the frequent occurrence of such chance meetings as would bring friends together who previously had known nothing of each other's present whereabouts. Newcomers do not always come here because some friend is located here, and still it is barely possible that among the thousands of residents here they might find some old and dear friend, if they only had a way of finding out, other than through mere luck."

"For the mutual benefit and convenience of the residents of Glendale and for those who are now, or will hereafter find a home here, a system of registration should be adopted whereby those desiring to register would show their former residence address, as well as their present one. That would make it possible for anyone who cared to examine it to locate any friends or acquaintances whose presence here might not otherwise be known."

"In order to accomplish what has herein been suggested the

DRAMA SECTION ENTERTAINED BY MRS. LOCKWOOD

The members of the Drama section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. R. E. Chase is curator, were entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Lockwood, 514 North Orange street, with twenty members present. Mrs. H. R. Boyer was a guest of the section. The members of the section read the first three acts of Moliere's play, "Tartuffe." A review of two new plays, "Rain" and "Loyalties" was given by Mrs. R. E. Chase. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served. Mrs. Lockwood was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. A. L. Ferguson.

ATTEND DINNER OF UNITED DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY

Glendale residents who attended the annual luncheon of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, held in the coconut grove at the Ambassador hotel, on Friday, included Mrs. Richard Martinez, Mrs. J. P. Alexander, Mrs. Benjamin Alexander and Mrs. Lucille Alexander.

LOYAL WOMEN'S BIBLE CLASS HOLDS MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Loyal Women's Bible Class of the Central Christian Church, of which Mrs. S. S. Archer is president, was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. E. Cox, 605 East Lomita avenue. Plans for the future work of the class were discussed and the following members will have charge of the four sections into which the class was divided: Mrs. I. C. Leggett, Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. B. F. Bolen and Mrs. Guidinger. Mrs. Cox was chosen as chairman of the absentee committee. The next meeting will be held in February.

FIVE INITIATED BY THE WHITE SHRINE

At the regular meeting of Omart No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, held Friday night at Masonic temple, Glendale, with Mrs. Orma V. Naudain, worthy high priestess, and other officers in charge, five new members were initiated into the order. Ernest E. Ford of Alhambra, national associate supreme watchman of the shepherds, was a guest. There were 80 members in attendance. At the close of the business session refreshments were served.

Glendale Building and Loan association will keep and maintain a register for the use of all who wish to avail themselves of the opportunity to use it. The public is cordially invited to cooperate with the officers of the association in making this a worthwhile undertaking. Who knows what old friendships may be renewed or new friendships made? It may be the means of bringing happiness to many in a way not now foreseen.

FOOTBALL CLUB HAS DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

The members of the Football Club were delightfully entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary J. Oliver, 1314 North Central avenue. In addition to the regular club members, who were all present, the special guests were Mrs. William Reed, Mrs. D. E. Baxter, Mrs. R. L. Young and Mrs. Cunningham, all of Casa Verdugo, and Mrs. Gilbert F. Wyvell of Los Angeles. Decorations of China lilies, spring flowers and ferns were used throughout the house.

This was the first meeting of the club since before the holidays and was very much enjoyed. The musical program included: Piano numbers, by Mrs. Reed Williams, "The Brook" (Page) and "The Military March" (Schumann); vocal numbers by Miss Marie Oliver, "Lullaby from Jocelyn" (Godard). The game "bunko" was then played. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Ella Williams and second prize to Mrs. Wm. C. Cutler. Delicious refreshments were served.

BARD SECTION TO HAVE CARD PARTY

The members of the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon club, of which Mrs. Walter Jones is curator, are planning to give a card party at the Broadway Inn the afternoon of Monday, January 22, beginning at 2 o'clock. Refreshments will be served, and there will be prizes awarded for each five tables.

PRATTS TO ENTERTAIN YOUNGS OF ANAHEIM

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Pratt of 356 West Myrtle street, will entertain as their guests at dinner tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Young of Anaheim, Mr. and Mrs. John Young and daughter Margaret of San Gabriel, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Paulson and daughter Margaret of Fergus Falls, Minn.

Julian, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Pearson of 644 East Harvard, is now at Orange, where his wife has been visiting and a son and daughter are making their home, having driven through from Belle Fourche, S. D. He will be in Glendale Monday to visit his parents and his brother, James W. Pearson.

Mrs. L. W. Elliott of 353 Oak street, had the pleasure of entertaining Friday a group of old friends whom she knew twenty years ago in Jefferson, Iowa, the party including Mr. and Mrs. Tim Edwards of Woodlawn Avenue, Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Elliott, of Chico, California; Mrs. Warren Adams and daughter of 503 West Myrtle, Glendale.

VAN NUYS JOINS BENTLEYS BUY CITY K. OF P. CEREMONIES SCHOENEMAN'S INTEREST

Joint Installation of Officers Is Held at Local Temple

A most interesting and beautiful ceremonial was witnessed Friday night at the meeting of La Halla Temple, K. of P. Hall, when officers of that temple and the Van Nuys temple had a joint installation of officers.

The officers installed were in white and carried flowers, which added to the beauty of the pageant, and the installing officer, District Deputy Senior Grand Chief Weatherbee, was attended by and assisted by Drill Team No. 2 of Purity Temple, Los Angeles, and by the Grand Senior, Mrs. Scott of Van Nuys and Grand Manager, Mrs. Wilbur of Glendale. Also present as a guest was Mrs. Hattie Goodrich of Los Angeles, Past Grand Chief.

Officers installed for La Halla Temple were: Sitting Past Chief, Pauline Dosse (retiring Excellent Chief); Most Excellent Chief, Mrs. Uzzella Jollissee.

Excellent Senior Chief, Mabel King.

Excellent Junior Chief, Melissa Dixon.

Manager, Laura Chrisman.

Mistress of Records and Correspondence, Viola Peters.

Mistress of Finance, Blanch Willett.

Protector of the Temple, Margaret Hibbert.

Guard, Elfa St. Clair.

Past Chief pins were presented to the retiring Excellent Chiefs, and flowers were bestowed upon them, upon the installing officers, and upon the incoming most excellent chiefs.

Tonight La Halla Temple will be the guest of Purity Temple, Los Angeles.

FREE TUBE WITH EVERY CASING

A tube free with every casing, is the offer that the firm of Lyman & Lund, corner Louise and Broadway, is making to the motorists of Glendale. About a week ago this offer was extended to the car owners of Glendale, and since that time this firm has been kept more than busy passing out the free tubes.

There are a few more tubes left, however, and the members of this concern stated this morning that those who are going to "get in" on this offer will have to hurry, for they are being snatched up at a lively rate.

Bentley Lumber Co. Absorbs Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Co.

The Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company of 460 West Los Feliz road has changed its name to Bentley Lumber company, the Bentleys having bought out the interests of Mr. Schoeneman. The officers will be John Bentley, president; Roger Bentley, vice-president; Ray Bentley, general manager; George H. Bentley, secretary-treasurer; W. P. Potter, assistant secretary.

For the past nine years the company has had a very good business in Glendale and surrounding territory, having bought out the Valley Lumber company who were located at the corner of Broadway and Maryland avenue, and the Bentley Lumber company operated at that location until three years ago, when they bought the lumber yard at their present location.

Since moving to their present site, 460 W. Los Feliz road, they have built an up-to-date office and equipped it with modern bookkeeping machines, telephone switchboard with three trunk lines which assure their customers of the best of service at all times, expert office help is on the job at all times to give building advice and see that orders are properly filled.

Here modern building plan service rooms are maintained and equipped with hundreds of actual photographs and very latest styles in building plans. Here the owner or contractor can come and inspect plans and get expert building advice, free of charge.

New buildings and storage racks were built where the lumber that comes into the yard, on their own spur track, can be quickly piled.

A new dry kiln was constructed to better dry the finish lumber that the company might give their customers the best finish which is run in their own complete planing mill.

Seven motor trucks give the people "sudden service." The Bentley Lumber company also has a roofing department which puts on roofs of all kinds, including the pretty red and green rock surface. This department is in charge of P. E. Maxwell, a roofing expert.

Hardwood floors are also sold, laid and finished complete. The Bentley Lumber company has built up a large business and are always on the job and helping put over any civic enterprise that is for the best interests of Glendale.

Experience is a great teacher, but her tuition fees are exorbitant.

GLENDALÉ WOMAN IS HOSTESS TO L. A. FUNCTION

Glendale had the honor of furnishing in the person of Mrs. M. L. White of Raleigh street, this city, the very capable chairman of arrangements and hostess in the receiving line of the luncheon given by the southern chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy of California at the Hotel Ambassador Friday, at which covers were laid for 700.

The Glendale delegation numbered about 25 and included Mrs. C. E. Norton, Mrs. Mabel Rudy, Mrs. Martinez, Mrs. W. K. Russell, Mrs. Sarah Alexander, Mrs. Lucille Alexander, Mrs. M. L. White, Mrs. Tom Thornton and others.

Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Douglass was the toastmistress and presiding officer and the chief after-dinner speech was made by Richmond P. Hobson. The luncheon celebrated the birthdays of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, and was held in the coconut room, specially decorated for the occasion. It was the big event of the year for the southern colony and a very brilliant affair.

Where Are Your Feet?

IN ill-fitting shoes that keep you reminded most of the time that you have feet?

Perfect comfort is possible only with properly made shoes—shoes cut to follow the lines of the foot and to give proper support to the arch. Arnold Glove-Grip shoes are made that way. Yet they are fashioned to a man's taste in the newest shapes and leathers. Plenty of snap and style, with a man's idea of comfort. Stop in and try on a pair.

WHEAT PLANTING

While unfavorable winter weather often damages grain sown in the fall, studies made by the Department of Agriculture indicate that conditions during the fall do not have much bearing on the yield of wheat the following summer.

Weather during the winter, spring and early summer months, especially from March to June, has a much greater influence on the final crop. The department points out that wheat may be in poor condition at the beginning of the winter but with good conditions later the improvement may be such as to produce a satisfactory crop. When there is no snow to protect the crop, plants are sometimes killed by the direct action of cold. A sudden freeze may do a great deal of harm especially in the spring. Winter drought may cause injury to the crop though it is less frequent than other causes.

"When You Buy Advertising You Buy Circulation"

Why One Advertising Appropriation Was Increased

Two partners were debating their advertising policy—planning the campaign for the next six months.

Theirs is a retail store which spent in one year $12,000 on its advertising, which was 5% of their yearly volume, a fair expenditure in their line of business.

In growth of sales they could easily point out the home-coming of the $12,000 with a fair and reasonable profit in its train. For these two partners that expenditure was a profitable short-term investment.

One of the partners spoke up:

"John," he said, "we have a cash profit in the bank from that $12,000, but we have a greater intangible profit by far—it is piled up for us in the minds of every man and woman in the city.

"It is present in the minds of the manufacturers who sell us.

"It is reflected in the attitude of our bankers.

"It is working on the minds and purses of every one of our customers."

"Why," he continued, "this business, because of the advertising we have done, is worth $12,000 more than it was before we began."

The two partners increased their appropriation, modestly, it is true. That was five years ago. Today, for it is a large city, their appropriation is eight times their original amount. Their standing, with bankers, manufacturers and customers is A-1. Their business has grown and grown in a healthy way. And still, as one of them put it—

"In the last five years advertising has made money for us. Every cent we've spent has come back to us, and brought another with it. But, our real profit—our big profit from that advertising is banked in the minds of the people. Ours is the best known business of its kind in town. And that is worth a lot of money to us."

FOREST AVENUE PLAN OPPOSED BY DR. MABRY

Explains Protest of South
Side to Proposed Widening

The following has been received from Dr. W. C. Mabry, relative to the proposed widening of Forest avenue:

To the Editor Glendale Press:
In your issue of the 18th inst. there appears a report of a meeting of the city council headed "Forest Ave. Widening is Considered."

In the article it is stated that after two hours of argument the matter was referred to a special committee upon which the section of the city making protest seems not to be represented in any way.

At the end of the article also one of the councilmen is quoted as saying, "I understand the city and Mr. White will have to stand all the expense of this work and I would like to know what right any others have to protest against this work. It will not cost them one penny, so where have they any reason to kick? If anyone has a real kick come, I wish they would kick that objection right now."

I was unable to be present at that meeting and request that through your valued medium that the same publicity be given the same public that this peculiar mental attitude of a councilman to civic affairs has had. I think I am very conservative in saying that what is to follow voices the sentiment of at least 2,000 citizens living south of Windsor road.

At a mass meeting recently held in South Glendale that same councilman was present, as was also the president of the school board, I believe, and heard the unanimous "kick" of nearly two hundred citizens against the school board giving up 12 feet along the entire Cerritos school block to widen Forest avenue, which would be of benefit almost entirely to private interests.

There is now on file with the city council a protest against such an extension signed by about 1,600 citizens. This protest was gotten up in 24 hours. The protest topped the permit at the time.

Furthermore, the citizens of Glendale bought and paid for the trip of ground 12 feet wide and a look long for school purposes, and of to be donated to private interests under any guise or pretext.

Furthermore, we have very recently paid for the expensive culverts and pavement at the intersection of Forest avenue and Brand boulevard, and it seems either comacency or inefficiency, or both, that the necessity for taking playground space away from school children for the benefit of private interests has become so urgent a few weeks after the street was "finished."

Furthermore, it seems strange that the school children should give up off the entire block for private interests while the private interests give not an inch and grudgingly agree to pay half the paving, which they would have to do any event.

Furthermore, the city is to pay all the cost of paving from bond money voted by the citizens of Glendale to improve roadways and parks for the benefit of the schools, the school board not having funds for that purpose. In this case, Cerritos school would not benefit one cent's worth, as it is all evident that school children rarely if ever use this street at the foot of the grounds, where no residences can exist.

It may be said that Forest avenue might divert some of the traffic from Brand to Glendale avenue (another "nigger" in the road). Possibly this is a reasonable cause for widening the street and if so it could be done effectively by rounding off the Glendale avenue corner and installing combination sidewalks and curbs on one, but both sides of the street, and without tearing out the expensive culverts and pavement just paid for chiefly by South Glendale.

And, by the way, while we are speculating, why did it not appear in the report of a meeting that the park South Glendale wants the city council to acquire, either by purchase or condemnation, is that same piece of ground across the street from Cerritos school and extending to the top of the Tropico hills and adjoining the city-owned reservoir site? It might also have appeared that this only remaining possible site for a public park in South Glendale has all the natural assets to make it by far the finest park which could be found within the corporate limits of Glendale.

Only one more "kick"—for the present. It is the "business" of every citizen of Glendale who opposes annexation, as I emphatically do, to take an interest in civic affairs, even if a councilman does object, and effectively stop that tendency to disregard real public interests and favor private interests that some public officials seem to possess. That apparent tendency does more to make votes for annexation and defeat school bonds than the unnecessarily high tax rate, forcing projects which the citizens have rejected the polls, or inflicting billboards upon us.

Sincerely yours for Glendale,
DR. W. C. MABRY,
115 East Acacia Ave.

200 PRESENT AT HI FATHERS' NIGHT

"Fathers' Night" was celebrated by the members of the Glendale Union High School Parent-Teacher association last night when a very interesting program was given at the school auditorium, attended by 200 parents from all parts of the union high school district. A short business session was held with Mr. W. C. Widdows, president, in charge. V. M. Hollister, president of Glendale Community Service, was present and announced the song leaders' music institute to begin Monday night at 7:30 o'clock under the direction of Alexander Stewart, Pacific Coast music organizer for National Community Service. J. A. Lewis, president of the Song Leaders' Association of Los Angeles, led in community singing which was very much enjoyed.

The first appearance of the high school band took place last night. The high school parent-teacher association was instrumental in the organization of the band and the splendid progress made, as shown by the numbers rendered was indeed very gratifying.

The program was given by the high school students and included the following:

1. March, "America's Finest" (Zamecnik)
2. Overture, "Mazepa" (Mab)
3. Reading, "The Railroad Crossing" (Cohen)
4. Fox trot, "You Playing Fair?" (Cohen)
5. March, "Our Director" (Bigelow)
6. Quartette, "Keep on Hopin'" (O' Mine) (Wait)
7. By Gertrude Heidemann, Claude Whitfield, Winifred Parker and Irvin Carver
8. Reading, "The Marionettes" (Wait)
9. Novlette, "Rosebuds" (St. Clair)
10. March, "Fading Day" (Zamecnik)
11. By High School Band

KIWANIS CLUB HAS BANQUET IN CANYON

New Officers Are Introduced at the Conclusion of Dinner

The banquet and dance given at the Sunset Canyon clubhouse Friday night by the Kiwanis club, at which their wives and sweethearts were entertained, proved a delightful social affair. The five-course dinner was served about 7 o'clock at small tables, covers being laid for 125.

Following the dinner and adjournment to the ballroom, the new officers were introduced by the retiring president, Lyman P. Clark, beginning with A. L. Ferguson, president, and including Herman Nelson, first vice-president; Dr. T. C. Young, second vice-president; Don Webb, secretary, and O. W. Andersen, song leader. The treasurer, H. Smith, was ill and unable to be present.

Each officer, as introduced, made a brief response. Fred Deal, chairman of the evening, was also introduced and made a short speech. After these formal introductions, guests all around the room introduced each other, giving everybody a chance to know everybody else, and dancing began, music being furnished by the Shrine orchestra.

During an intermission a program furnished by the Grand was put on which included a few solo dances by pupils of the Egan school, and vocal numbers by himself and Mrs. Girard.

TUESDAY CLUB BARN DANCE IS BIG SUCCESS

The barn dance given for the benefit of the Tuesday Afternoon Club building fund at San Fernando road and Harvard street last night proved to be a very jolly affair enjoyed by the 200 people present. About $70 was cleared. Decorations carried out the club colors of green and gold, boughs of acacia and eucalyptus being used. A great deal of merriment was occasioned by the clever costumes worn by some of the guests, which were quite typical and in keeping with a barn dance.

Mrs. A. A. Bassett, Mrs. Mae Rosenberg and Mrs. S. H. Waller were in charge of the punch and ginger ale table and Mrs. Cleveland in charge of the candy booth. Music for dancing was furnished by the Mariah Jones' five-piece orchestra.

Arrangements for the dance were in charge of the following members of a sub-committee appointed by the ways and means committee, of which Mrs. A. H. Montgomery is chairman: Mrs. James H. Seaver, chairman; Mrs. Ella Richardson, Mrs. R. W. Meeker, Mrs. Waldo Richardson, Mrs. George Piercey, Mrs. E. T. Remmen, Mrs. E. D. Radke, Mrs. McCann, Mrs. A. A. Bassett, Mrs. V. E. Identity in the Resurrection

If a man die shall he live again?

The Riddle of the ages.

What takes place beyond the grave?

Shall we know each other in the Resurrection?

There is nothing more true in connection with human life than that we grow into the likeness of those things we contemplate.

Literally and scientifically and necessarily true is it that "as a man thinketh so is he."

The IS part IS his character.

His character is the sum total of his habits.

What becomes of this character at death?

Will it be revived in the Resurrection?

AT THE THEATRES

"OUTCAST" AND VAUDEVILLE AND ARLISS AT THE T. D. & L. HARRY CAREY AT THE GLENDALE

Its outstanding features, Elsie Ferguson and Intense drama, a Paramount picture of "Outcast," a well-known stage success, proved a big attraction at the T. D. & L. theater last evening.

Gripping throughout is the dramatic intensity of the picture. With the nature of its characters, it fascinates from the start, leading you along the streets with a girl who is forced to wander aimlessly because she has neither money, friends, food nor shelter.

David Powell, one of the ablest of leading men, plays opposite the star, and Mary MacLaren has the role of Valentine. Others in the cast include William Powell, Charles Wellesley, and William David. Chet Withey was the director.

Sunday Program
Almost any report of the doings of George Arliss, noted screen and stage star, is interesting, but the announcement that his latest photoplay, "The Man Who Played God," in which he has the star role, and in which he again proves his astonishing versatility as an actor, constitutes real news for the motion picture theater-goers of this city.

This announcement comes from the management of the T. D. & L. theater who tells of having booked "The Man Who Played God," a United Artists Corporation release, for tomorrow (Sunday), and with it comes also the statement that George Arliss will be seen in an entirely new type of characterization.

"Admirers of Mr. Arliss and his splendid artistry," explains Mr. Allan of the T. D. & L. theater, "have seen him previously in the role of the designing, scheming and crafty cynic; as the statesman and the diplomatist, and in 'The Man Who Played God' they will see him in still another role—that of the romantic lover in a highly emotional picture."

Trade press reviewers, who witnessed the private presentation of the Fox super-production "The Fast Mail" at the Lyric theatre, New York city, were unanimous in their approval of the picture, and which will find approval within the most discriminating circles of picture enthusiasts. This much heralded picture will be the attraction at the Glendale theatre beginning Sunday. Not one critic wrote adversely of the picture.

It's especially beneficial for women and children as well as men folks. Results are remarkable; and there are no bad after-effects. An X-Ray of your spine will absolutely show your condition and enable us to get you well quicker. We have our own X-Ray equipment.

Everybody is invited to all of our services.

BROTHERHOOD IS ENTERTAINED AT 1ST METHODIST

There was an excellent attendance at the supper of the Brotherhood of the First Methodist Church held Friday evening.

An excellent talk on "The Relation of Christianity to Business," was made by Dr. Livingston of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church, and a fine exposition by Mr. Conrey of the work that is being done in Los Angeles by the Union Rescue Mission in reaching the down and out and making good citizens of men whom the law has been unable to reform. Mr. Conrey was accompanied by one of the rescued, a fine looking young man who told of how he went adrift at the age of 17 and became identified with a group of radicals who set his hand against every other man.

The Brotherhood is helping to finance this work. Announcement was made that the next meeting would be a banquet given by the defeated team in a contest that is to take place during the next thirty days for an increased enrollment in the Sunday school of the church.

SPARR HEIGHTS, LYING IN SHADOW OF FOOTHILLS, CALLS THE HOMESEEEKER

THE SIERRA MADRES FROM SPARR HEIGHTS

LOOKING OVER BUSINESS DISTRICT TOWARD THE VERDUGOS

PROPOSED OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB HOUSE

HUNDREDS OF HOMESITES BEING TAKEN UP BY INCOMING HORDES; ITS SUCCESS IS ASSURED

So urgent has been the demand for homesites on the beautiful rolling hills lying to the east of the Verdugo road in Sparr Heights that the Francis-Barnum-Walters Co., the owners and subdividers of this beautiful tract, have had a large force of engineers working overtime, making a plat of this choice territory. This plat is at last completed and it will be open for reservations today.

Facing the Verdugo road, the most delightfully picturesque boulevard leading out of Los Angeles, this choice property commands a comprehensive view over the whole of the lovely Verdugo valley, bounded on the east by the Sierra Madre range and on the west by the famed "Green Verdugo hills."

Directly in front, on the opposite side of the boulevard, will be located the picturesque home of the Oakmont Country club and, stretching between, will lie the beautiful greens of its splendid 18-hole golf course.

On these hills at an elevation of 1500 feet, in a perfect climate, surrounded on every side by scenic beauty, with a perfect transportation service and guarded by long-time rigid restrictions, one can build an ideal home and, if the phenomenal sales of the first and second units are a criterion, these hillside homesites will go quickly.

The gift of the artistic Community Centre building to Sparr Heights and the city of Glendale by William S. Sparr and the members of the Francis-Barnum-Walters Co., the owners and subdividers of Sparr Heights, came at a most opportune time.

Glendale's interest in Community Service has rapidly been intensifying. The possibility of bringing the entire city together through Community Service was most effectively demonstrated at Glendale's first Community Christmas celebration held on the high school grounds recently and which proved such a great success. The program was participated in by all those present and the enthusiasm manifested engendered a "get-together" spirit that was decidedly marked and gave promise of increased development in the future.

Just at this time, when the value of activities in the mass, became evident to Glendale's citizens and the need of some center in which these activities should focus, was demonstrated, came the gift of this handsome building. The appreciation of the gift was evidenced by the large attendance at the laying of the cornerstone. This building is so designed that it will fully meet the need of a place where theatrical entertainments and social gatherings can be given.

A committee from the three luncheon clubs of Glendale, the "Exchange," "Kiwanis" and "Rotary" which conferred recently with the executive board of the Glendale Community Service was authorized to raise the remainder of the proposed budget for the service work in Glendale. It is planned to give a dinner at $25 per plate, $1 extra to admit escort. The organizations of Glendale have been divided among the three luncheon clubs, so that each club will be responsible for securing one-third of the organizations to form into the campaign. Every club in the city is invited to participate. It is planned to raise $5,000 at the dinner.

The Glendale Community Players, a subsidiary of the Community Service, whose object is to furnish high-class theatrical performances, propose to hold an open-air festival next May, at which time they will present "The Sign of the Cross," which will require a cast of 400 members.

A committee was appointed to visit Sparr Heights and inspect the bowl which the Francis-Barnum-Walters company proposes to improve with a Greek theatre for use in outdoor spectacles and pageants. The site met with the unqualified approval of the committee and it has received assurance from the Francis-Barnum-Walters company that the latter will lend every assistance in its power to make the pageant an unqualified success. The company is working along a definite line of development that will make Sparr Heights a community where every social and intellectual need will be fully met and it is deeply interested in any movement that is in this direction.

With the Community Center building in constant use by social organizations, with spectacular performances being shown at the Greek theatre and the "functions" of the Oakmont Golf club, whose mammoth swimming pool and splendid 18-hole golf course will attract the leisure and cultured class, with whom golf is a "fad" from all over Southern California, the residents of Sparr Heights will be furnished high class entertainment and amusement that will be more accessible than is possible to those who live in the heart of Los Angeles.

The illustration at the head of this article shows the proposed club house as it will be built with perhaps some slight modifications. Located well up on the long slope from the Verdugo road boulevard to the Green Verdugo hills, that have become famous for their beauty, it faces the beautiful cluster of rolling hills to the east of the boulevard that has just been opened for homesite reservation.

From its broad veranda one will get a view over the whole of the lovely Verdugo valley and the giant Sierra Madres.

HOW IS GLENDALE PREPARED FOR RUSH OF POPULATION?

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Civic Development Expert

How is California preparing for the 50,000,000? This is the forecast of the ultimate population of the Golden State as made before a gathering of Central California chambers of commerce officials this week by Dr. B. M. Rastall, eminent municipal engineer of San Francisco and general manager of Californians, Inc.

Dr. Rastall, who has made a life study of population movement and development of cities, made the prediction, founded upon his own observation and information, that the greatest population movement in the history of this country is about to set in toward California. The influx of tourists and home seekers in the past, he said, would be scarcely a taste of the inrush in the near future.

He urged chambers of commerce in their respective districts to prepare for the coming of the multitudes in fostering civic improvements, road building, extension of public utilities and development of attractive home districts. Incidentally he told of the extensive advertising campaign in eastern publications recently begun by Californians, Inc. That campaign, while ostensibly in the interests of all California, is more particularly concerned with Central and Northern California, tributary to San Francisco.

With Californians, Inc., in the north and the All-Year Club of Los Angeles in the south telling the world of the manifold advantages of California as a place to live, to visit or to do business in, it will not be long, as Dr. Rastall intimated, for the name California to be on every one's tongue, not only throughout the United States but in an ever widening section of the civilized world. And the nation-wide suggestion, inspired by clever advertising, is calculated to speed up the movement, already well under way in every state in the Union, to get out to sunny California.

The prognostications of so eminent and conservative an observer and analyst as Dr. Rastall bear out the forecasts of bankers, merchants and realty operators of the southland that the year 1923 will exceed all that have gone before in the number of visitors, homeseekers and investors who will make Southern California their goal. They also increase faith in the oft-repeated belief that the third most populated city in America, perhaps some day the first, before many years will occupy all the territory between mountains and sea in Los Angeles county with suburbs stretching into neighboring counties.

In preparation for this wonderful future as visualized, not by a few dreamers, but by scores of keen, conservative, hard-headed business men, what is being done right here in Glendale and district to attract new people and new capital? Is there an adequate planning, and zoning system? Are there sufficient boulevards in and out and through? Are water supply and sewage disposal ample for double the present population? Is the housing situation all it ought to be and are there sufficient hotels and apartment houses? Is sufficient effort being made to attract new enterprises and desirable industries?

These questions have been asked before in these columns, but they cannot be asked too often. Those who beat the rush into town do not always realize the gathering momentum back of them. Conditions as they find them are satisfactory and they see no need for improving upon them.

But, as Dr. Rastall pointed out to the chambers of commerce delegates, the cities best prepared for new population and displaying their good points to best advantage will be the cities receiving most benefit from the new movement of men and money into Southern California. The time to prepare is at once.

PAINTING HINTS FOR THE HOME OWNER

The correct color scheme, depending upon the size of the building, has a decided bearing on the appearance of the paint job after the work has been completed.

Decide as to the colors to be used before the painting has been started and then trying out the scheme on the garage is a good idea.

Painting a surface large enough to get a good perspective of the finished work is far better than choosing colors from cards and small painted areas.

Your painter is willing to make a number of sample colors for you. Although you may have a certain color in mind it is best to have a small amount of the colors made up and applied before the work is started.

You may find that the colors are not becoming to the house.

If you intend to apply two or three coats of paint it is not necessary to have a coat preceding the finished work the exact shade you desire, unless the color scheme is changed completely.

For example, it may have been decided to have a dark brown color for the finished work, then it is changed to a light cream.

This may necessitate an extra coat of paint because one coat of light cream will not properly cover a dark brown.

However, if this is reversed, a good paint job may be had without another application of paint.

Therefore, be sure the color combination is proper before the work is undertaken. You will either save money or disappointment.

For some unexplainable reason people had the idea some years ago that small bungalows must be painted in a very dark color. For years past our bungalows in California have been made to look depressed and to have a melancholy atmosphere about them.

It is pleasing to note, however, that new cottages or bungalows now being erected are painted in lighter colors.

Small houses should always be painted in lighter colors. These paints impart cheerfulness and cleanliness. The house has something attractive about it.

A man with a grievance never misses an opportunity to mention it.

BRICK IS BEING FACED WITH CONCRETE

Use of waterproofing material and workmanship in the manufacture of concrete face brick has within recent years eliminated fully 95 per cent of the dampness in masonry walls, thereby effecting a saving to owners of many dollars.

The face of the concrete brick is made of a dense mixture, and applied and worked in such a manner as to make it waterproof.

Its absorption of moisture is practically nothing.

By keeping out the water from a wall there naturally is no dampness produced.

The dry condition of a wall leads to plaster remaining intact, and should the interior of the building be papered, paper is not damaged.

While a small amount of rainwater could possibly get into the wall through the mortar joints, the percentage is so infinitely small as to have practically no effect on the dry condition of the brick.

This waterproof face feature in concrete face brick makes the cost of the brick no more than with other types of face brick and in the long run means a greater saving to the owner of the building and certainly affords the tenants themselves a little relief from the worry of stained walls, ruined wall paper, etc.

Developments in concrete products are being made so rapidly today that the discerning owner or prospective owner owes himself a distinct duty to investigate the products and firms manufacturing such material.

There are several of repute in Southern California.

LEGALITY OF LAWS FOR ZONING ATTACKED

Legal tests involving the municipal zoning laws that have been adopted in various cities are being made.

One peculiar test is being tried out at Santa Ana.

Mrs. Mary Haley obtained a building permit to erect a business structure on Main street and Washington avenue in that city.

Property owners in the vicinity objected to the location of a business building there and secured the revocation of the permit.

A zoning ordinance was passed by the city which would prohibit the erection of a business building at that place. Mrs. Haley, however, decided to continue work on

SHEATHING HAS PROVEN VALUE

Sheathing has been found to add a certain element of protection to a dwelling. It excludes moisture to a certain degree, protects plastered walls and insures a certain amount of added warmth to the dwelling in winter. While it adds a small cost to the building construction, in the end it will pay to properly sheathe the structure.

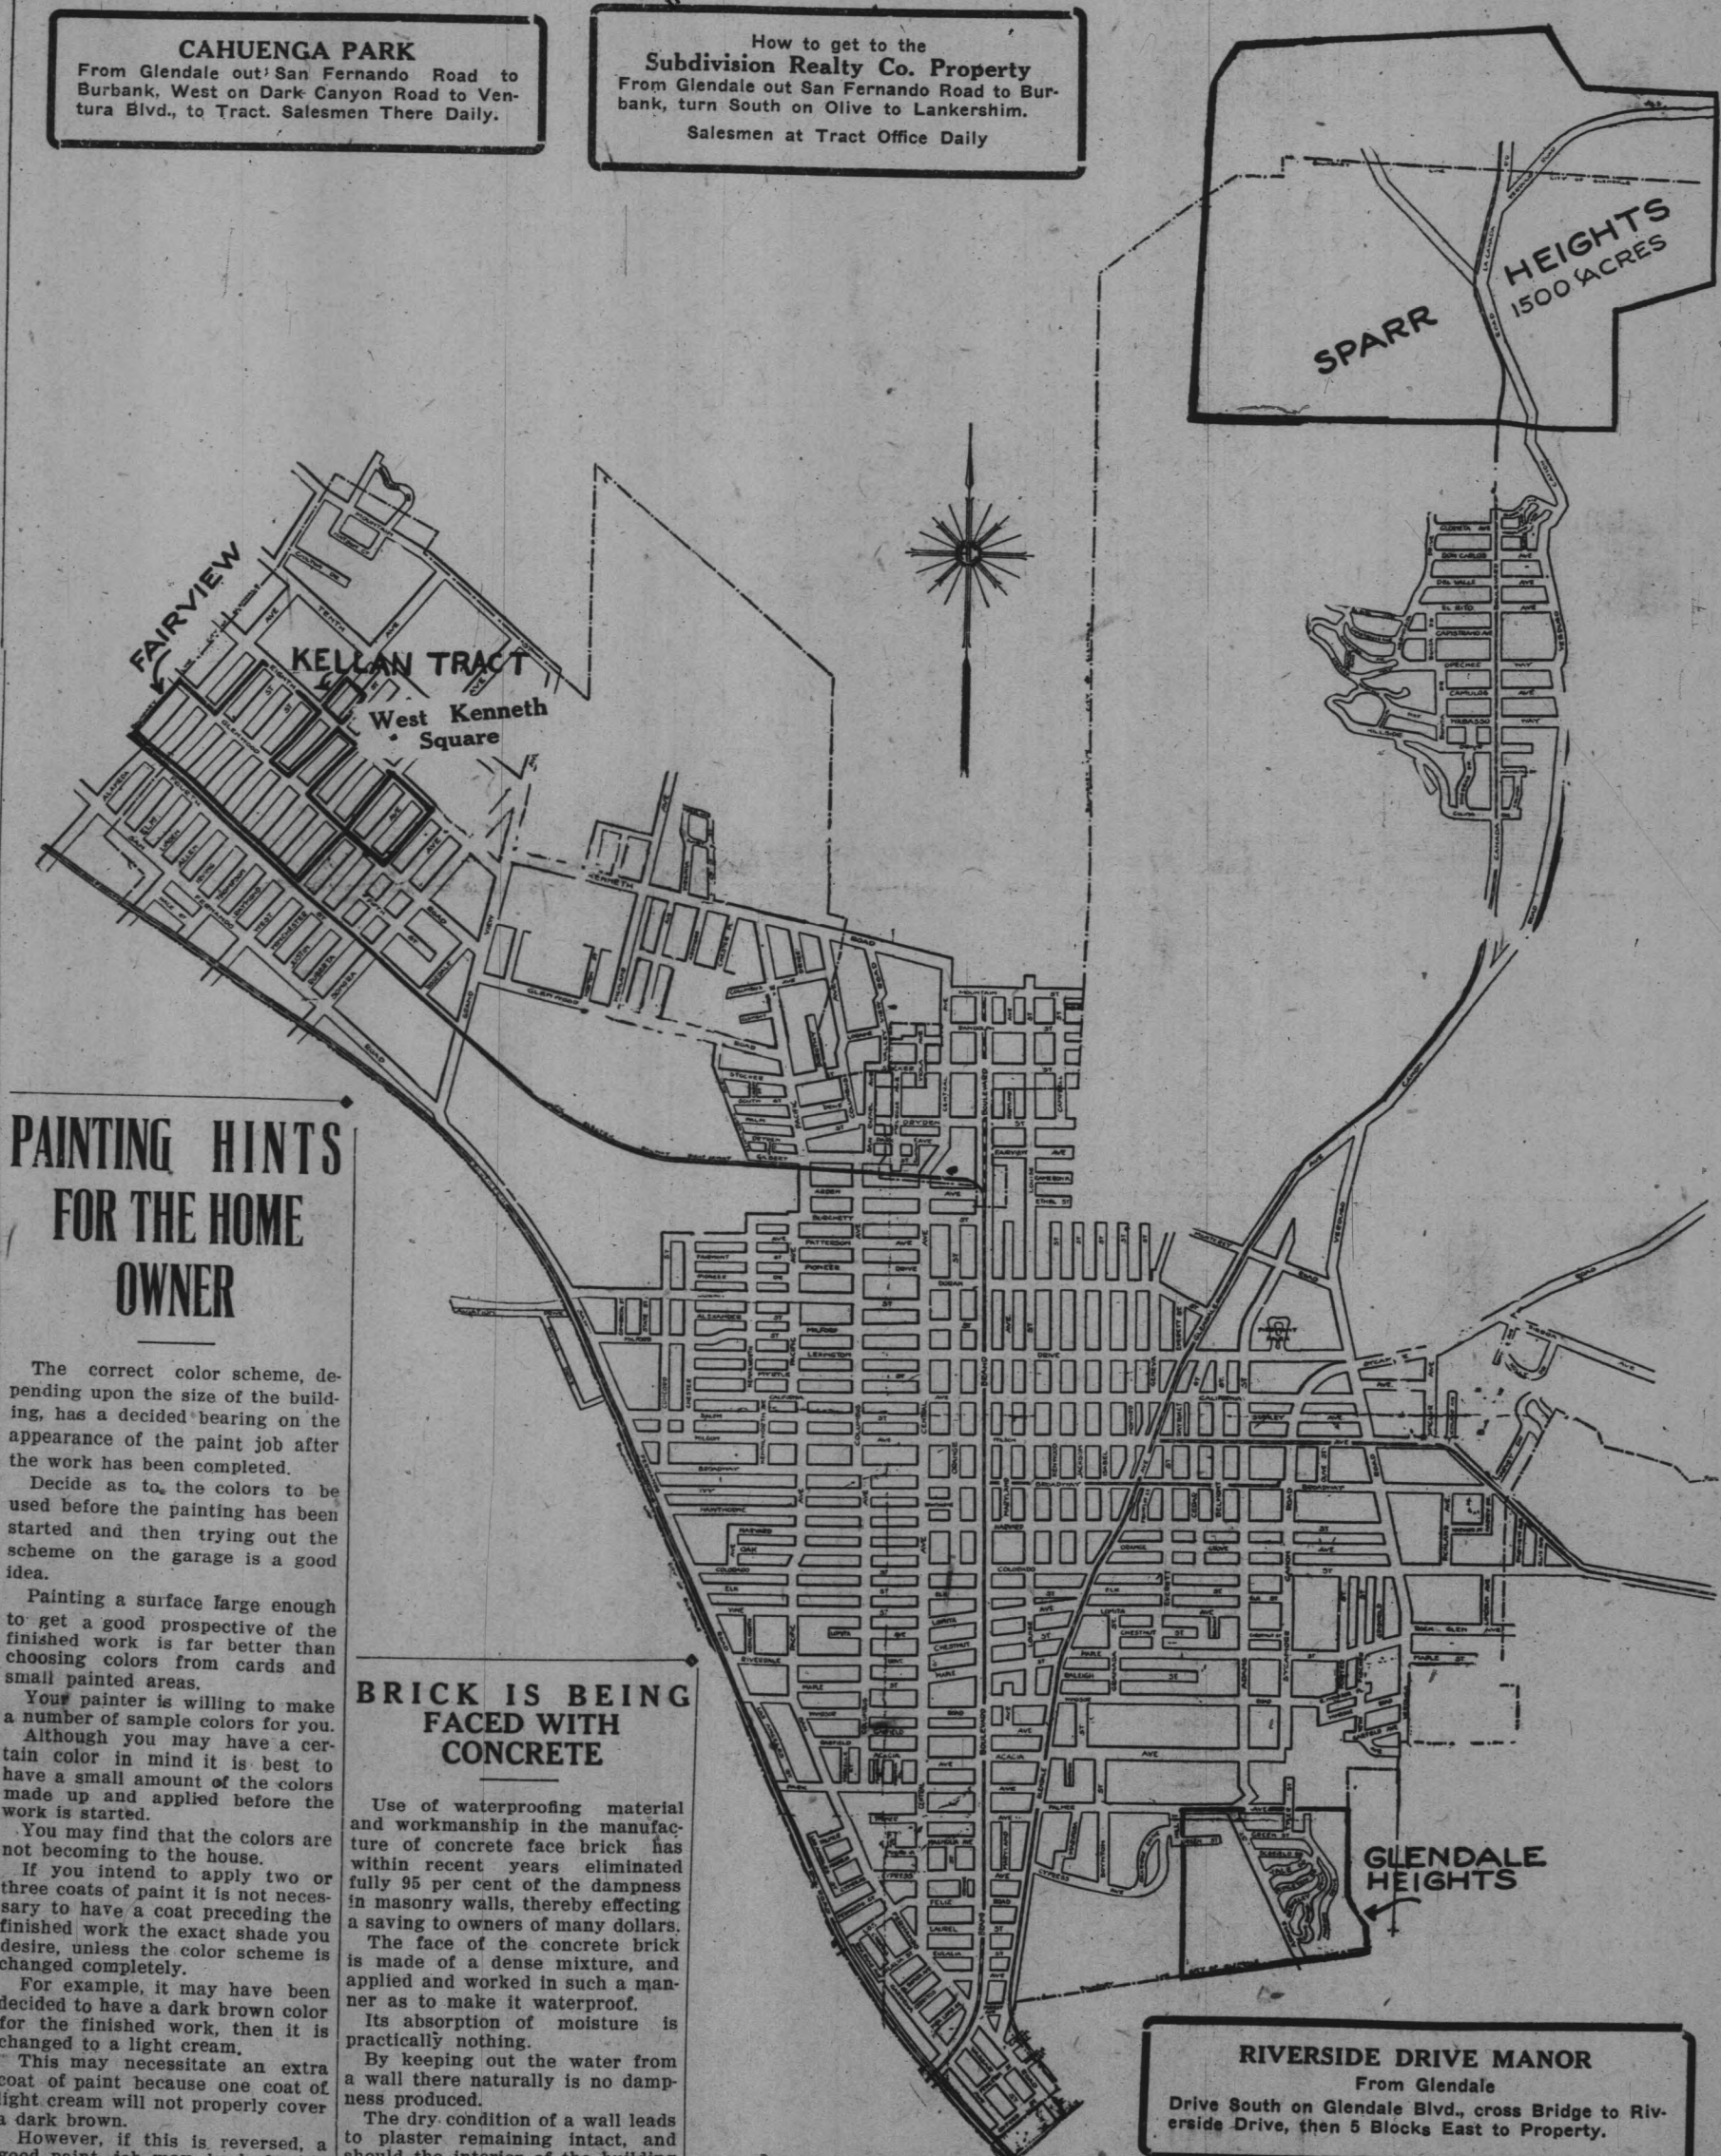

It is expected this case will go into the various courts until the constitutionality of the zoning law will be fully determined.

EAGLE ROCK CITY MAKES GOOD RECORD

As in 1921, Eagle Rock City last year exceeded the goal for which it aimed in the issuance of building permits. The figures, $1,333,221, at the close of the former year, were half a million more than had been anticipated for a population of about 4500.

Although December, 1922, was a rainy month, the records on the closing day of the year totaled $2,008,221. This, with an estimated population of 6000, or a little more.

What this country needs is a few more people who are willing to practice after they get through preaching.

DELAYS IN ISSUING OF BUILDING PERMITS IN L. A. CAUSE LOSS OF $75,000 ANNUALLY, IS CLAIM

C. V. Welch of the L. A. Building Department Says That Branch Is Three Weeks Behind in Work; $50,000 Additional Yearly Needed

Here's how long it takes to secure a building permit: In Los Angeles, three weeks. In Glendale, three minutes. The building department of Los Angeles is, according to a story published in a Los Angeles paper a few days ago, just three weeks behind in its issuance of building permits.

This means that if Glendale joins Los Angeles, those wishing to erect homes or business structures will have to "stand in line" three long, weary weeks before they are able to secure the permit that will entitle them to begin work on their building. More than that. It is claimed that the delays in the building department of Los Angeles are costing the people of that city $750,000 per year. That's something to think about.

The news article, as it appeared in the Los Angeles morning paper, is as follows:

"Delays in the issuance of building permits and in the inspection of buildings in process of construction, owing to the inadequate force of employees in the building department of the city, are costing the public of Los Angeles $750,000 per year, according to C. V. Welch, assistant Chief Inspector of Buildings.

"At the present time there are plans to the value of $10,000,000 filed with the building department, and the checking force is three weeks behind in its work. If building activity continues to increase in its present ratio, the department will be a month to five weeks behind, Mr. Welch stated, and it will be practically impossible to issue permits within a reasonable length of time. Just prior to the Christmas holidays, Mr. Welch said, the department was about fourteen days behind, but applications have increased so rapidly within the last three weeks that about three weeks is now required for the issuance of a permit.

"This situation is ascribed by Mr. Welch not only to the fact that the number of employees allowed to the department, which has become one of the busiest in the city administration, is limited, but also to the fact that the salaries paid are so low that it is practically impossible to get efficient and experienced employees. In the checking department the department is allowed eleven men, but at the present time there are only seven at work. While there are plenty of applications, the pay is deemed so low that the positions cannot be filled. The department has advertised for more men for this department, Mr. Welch said, and it has also appealed to the civil service commission, but without result.

"Early in December a communication, giving a detailed account of the conditions now prevalent in the department, were filed with the city council and it is hoped that the council will take action to relieve the situation. This communication requested a higher scale of salaries, additions to the plumbing and building inspection departments, and additional clerks.

A new schedule of salaries prepared by Mr. Welch, and presented to the city council calls for an additional expenditure of about $50,000 per year for the department, but during the first six months, under the new schedule, no additional appropriation would be necessary, since nearly half of this sum has accumulated to the department's salary account, owing to the fact that for some time the department has been running short-handed."

BERLIN. (By Mail).—The futurist craze has hit the German post-office department. The new 20-mark stamp, which will carry one small letter to any foreign country at this writing, is decorated by a futurist picture, which to the lay eye looks like a man ploughing. The whole stamp is printed in light blue.

The river was dangerous to bathers, and Johnny had been forbidden to swim. One day, however, he came home with unmistakable signs of having been in the water. His mother scolded him severely. "But I was tempted so badly, mother," he complained. "Yes, I suppose you were. But how did you happen to have your bathing suit with you?" Johnny paused, then said: "Well, mother, I took it, thinking I might be tempted."

A woman never likes to admit that she is beaten—even after her husband beats her.

SOME MORE WILD FLOWERS FOR HOME

It is not yet too late to sow annual wild flower seeds, although those planted by nature have already been sprouted by the recent warm rains and are well on their way towards that ultimate beauty which brings so much happiness to California.

Our California wild flowers germinate easily, grow quickly and yield lavish returns for a very little care. They should be sown on ground that has first been plowed or spaded and rendered into a state of ordinary till.

Sown broadcast over such land and lightly raked into the ground the wild flower garden will need no further care than that afforded by nature unless the seed has been sown in a spot badly infected with weeds.

The sturdier weeds prove to be too strong competitors for the wild flowers and will crowd them out, thus necessitating ordinary care to choose a site that is relatively clean of such pests.

One of the first to flower after planting and one of our most charming native annuals is the Baby Blue Eyes or Nemophila insignis.

It is a delightful little plant of spreading habit which attains a height of from four to eight inches. They occur profusely and will create a solid carpet of color over the area in which sown.

The blossoms open out flatly and sometimes attain a diameter of as much as an inch.

This little plant prefers shade or partial shade, but will grow in full sun.

It is sometimes used as such a cover in bulb beds in the same way that the Forget-Me-Not is used as a ground carpet for Tulip and Narcissus beds in our Eastern gardens. It also makes a pleasing edging, or border and should be more used.

In quite decided contrast to the Baby Blue Eyes is our Blazing Star, Mentzelia lindeyi, which is native to the central and northern part of the State.

It is thus that your individuality will find expression in your home. But if you have never paid much attention to such matters, then, for heaven's sake, do not start in at this critical time to try out your taste.

In that event leave it to your architect. Some specialize on one kind of building, some on another; that is, some on office buildings, for example, some on schools, etc.

LET AN EXPERT PLAN YOUR HOME

Consulting an architect is much like consulting a physician or a lawyer.

A physician has to diagnose a case before he can prescribe for it; a lawyer has to know all the facts before he can prepare a brief; an architect should be made familiar with the habits of living of a prospective home-builder before he can prepare a logical plan.

Indeed, it is better even if the architect is himself accustomed to live on a scale similar to that of his client, for he will thus be better able to appreciate what the latter will be satisfied with and what not.

So, when you go to an architect tell him all about your habits of life, as they may affect your home, your likes and dislikes, your pet hobbies.

Do this before getting down to the actual business of outlining a plan.

If you do it thoroughly the plan will come easier.

Having finally decided on a plan, give your architect all the latitude possible regarding an exterior.

This isn't so that he can have his own way, but because a plan and its exterior are interdependent considerations—much more so than the average layman realizes.

A colonial house, for example, requires a symmetrical plan, one that is the same width on two sides of a central axis.

A Spanish house does not require such a plan.

An English design may permit of bedrooms being tucked away under the roof in ways not at all possible to the Italian style.

For these reasons an architect frequently has to change a plan in order to obtain a certain kind of exterior.

So do not insist too strongly upon a certain kind of exterior after a plan has been definitely fixed.

If you have read much on the subject of houses before going to an architect and profited from your reading, he will be glad to learn your ideas resulting therefrom, if he is the right kind and will try to incorporate them in the plan.

It is thus that your individuality will find expression in your home. But if you have never paid much attention to such matters, then, for heaven's sake, do not start in at this critical time to try out your taste.

In that event leave it to your architect.

Some specialize on one kind of building, some on another; that is, some on office buildings, for example, some on schools, etc.

Roscoe—

For your HOME For your Investment

ROSCOE, the new payroll town in the heart of San Fernando Valley, has everything to make it a city. It is a crossroads point, where the Sunland-Lankershim Boulevard meets San Fernando Road. It has a railroad—bus line—natural gas and oil pipe lines—electric power—aqueduct water.

Best of all, ROSCOE has the climatic and soil conditions that are ideal for chicken raising. Poultry men say that it is bound to become a second Petaluma—and a big start has already been made.

Recognizing this, a strong company has established a big plant to make incubators, brooders and other poultry equipment at Roscoe—and they are away behind on their orders.

In the few short months Roscoe has been on the map, about 40 homes, nine stores and two factories have been built there—and it has only just started. Just as surely as night follows day, a substantial, prosperous city will develop there.

Come out and grow up with Roscoe. Your money invested there should return to you five-fold. Business lots, right on San Fernando Road, $1000; residence lots, $500; acre lots for poultry raising, $850. Easy terms and assistance to build.

Drive out San Fernando Road, 4½ miles beyond Burbank, and have our tract manager, Mr. Amunds, show you Roscoe. Or call up and have us take you out.

BRILLIANT STARS OF FILMDOM TO BE HOSTESS AND HOST AT CAHUENGA PARK

Bessie Love and Milton Sills, Both Investors, to Receive Visitors at the Subdivision on Sunday, January Twenty-first

Two of the most brilliant stars of filmdom will be the hosts at "Cahuenga Park" Sunday, January 21. They are Mr. Milton Sills and Miss Bessie Love. Both have made heavy investments in property at "Cahuenga Park." They have expressed a desire to meet their future neighbors here personally and will hold an informal reception Sunday afternoon. Mr. Sills is one of the most featured players in motion pictures today. He starred in some of the greatest productions ever turned out by the Famous Players-Lasky and the Thomas H. Ince studios, including "Skin Deep," "The Honor System" and "Behold My Wife." He has just completed "Adam's Rib" and "Isle of Dead Ships," in which he was featured.

Although one of the busiest stars in the profession, Mr. Sills has been alive to the possibilities of real estate investments in Los Angeles and is a recognized authority on values. His holdings in Hollywood and the Wilshire district are said to total over $100,000, and his beautiful home in West Hollywood is one of the show places of the city. Mr. Sills is a strong booster for "Cahuenga Park," not only because of the natural advantages of the subdivision, but also because of the fact that his previous investments with the management have proved very profitable.

Miss Bessie Love is one of the best highly regarded actresses in the motion picture world. She is now playing a feature role in "The Grange," under the direction of Marshall Nielan. She has just completed "Three Men to Pay," in which she starred with Dustin Farnum. Her remarkable work in "St. Elmo" and "The Ghost Patrol" has been a powerful influence in leading her to the hearts of her many admirers.

In common with practically all the best known stars of the screen, Miss Love is a heavy investor in Los Angeles property. Her Laurel Canyon home is one of the most charming in California. In addition to her income property in Hollywood, she is the proud possessor of a well developed 160-acre ranch at Pixley. Miss Love is a real enthusiast about "Cahuenga Park."

One of the most unusual features about "Cahuenga Park," according to C. C. Albright, is the fact that it attracts people of great wealth as well as those of moderate means. The magnificent foothills of the tract offer wonderful possibilities for large estates, and appeal to moneyed people, but with the idea of developing them on a large scale. The most striking examples of this are the heavy investments by the leading lights of the motion picture industry. Incidentally, Albright declares, this is one of the strongest factors in making and keeping Los Angeles the undisputed capital of the moving picture world. The stars have their homes and investments here and in most cases would not care to go elsewhere.

More property was sold at "Cahuenga Park" last Sunday than any other single day since the opening of the tract, Albright claims. Over 3,500 visitors were present. Miss Viola Dana and Mr. Theodore Roberts, hosts of the occasion, were given a tremendous ovation by the crowd. When introduced, Mr. Roberts said that the people should have been introduced to him rather than he to them as he probably had been here longer than any other person in the assemblage. He explained that he is a native son of California and that he has been studying the real estate situation all his life, but that he had never seen a subdivision which looked more favorable than "Cahuenga Park." He added that he had backed his judgment by large investments and that morning had increased his holdings by a purchase of $15,000 worth of lots.

"Cahuenga Park" is located on the heavily traveled Ventura boulevard, at the intersection of Sherman Way. The project involves over 11,000 acres of land, including business property, city residence property, small farms and foothill homesites. Plans now under way for the improvement of this district, including the extension of the Pacific Electric line along Ventura boulevard and the new Maliboland scenic drive, should double the value of this property, in addition to the certain enhancement due to the growth of the city, Albright declares.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone who wishes to meet the film celebrities to come to the tract Sunday. The Hollywood Legion band will entertain the crowd with one of its usual splendid concerts, and the subdividers promise a delightful surprise that will make those present very glad they came.

BESSIE LOVE
Who Will Act As Hostess at "Cahuenga Park" Saturday

One of the principal reasons why Los Angeles has maintained such a wonderful record of steady growth is based upon the fact that it is a city of home owners.

A city, a large proportion of whose inhabitants are living in homes of their own, is built upon a foundation which the changing tides of industrial and economic conditions cannot wash away or undermine.

It is the Gibraltar from which the citizens will rally forth and overcome any obstacle which threatens to interfere with the future progress and development of the community in which their homes are located.

Every man who has the welfare at heart of not only the community in which he lives, but of his own family, should strive to possess one of the greatest things a man can have, and that is a certificate of citizenship in the shape of a deed to a home.

While the desire to own a home seems to be firmly planted in the minds of the majority of Southern Californians, there are a large number who are under the impression that the costs of building materials are too high, and are laboring under the mistaken idea that these costs will come down in the near future.

As far as lumber is concerned, this is not at all likely to happen. Lumber can be purchased today at a considerably lower price than what it will cost a year from now. One reason why the cost is bound to be higher, rather than lower, is that as the timber resources of the South and East diminish, the demand for West Coast woods will correspondingly increase.

The cost of producing lumber is constantly increasing.

Charles Keith of Kansas City, one of the leading authorities on industrial economic conditions in this country, states:

"Since West coast operations are not opening up as fast as Southern pine operations are cutting out and shutting down, lumber is going to be increasingly scarcer for a while. Even when West coast supply catches up with demand, the heavier investment necessary will keep prices at a higher level."

The costs of opening up timber stands on the West coast are enormous.

THE PRESENT IS BEST TIME TO BUILD

ADOBE PROVES
REAL VALUE

After the experience of several years it has been found that what is known as modernized adobe is a very satisfactory and durable material for house construction. The adobe bricks, when being laid in the walls, are given a treatment of tar and cement. This has been found to exclude moisture and keep the temperature of the rooms at an even mark. Properly handled, adobe is a material which lends itself to very attractive architectural treatment.

FREE HOMESTEADS

The era of free first-class land in the United States has passed, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Nearly one half of the area of continental United States is not in farms. Of this large area about 40,000,000 acres are absolute desert or too rugged to be cultivated, 270,000,000 acres are occupied by forests and cut-over land, and 600,000,000 acres are in the semiarid district of the west and suitable only for grazing.

Sometimes a woman dubs a man a woman-hater just because he does not admire her.

Shut for 3,000 years.

mostly greater than in the South, whereas, an investment of $9.50 per thousand feet of production on the basis of twenty-five years of operation, sufficed at time of depletion of the timber of the North and the early rapid development in the South. It takes over $100 a thousand feet of annual production capacity to capitalize a typical lumber enterprise on the Pacific coast.

From the above it can be readily seen that the prospects of cheaper lumber are very remote and that every indication points to a rising instead of a lowering price.

In any event, the price fluctuations downward would be very slight and of but short duration.

When one realizes that a reduction of $5 per thousand on the lumber used in the average home means less than $100 on the total cost, it is hardly worth considering when the advantages of owning a home are taken into account.

To the man who is hesitating on account of building material costs, and who desires one of the typical beautiful Southern California homes built of nature's finest building material, wood, there is no time like the present.

WALNUT GLENN IS MOST RECENT OFFERING

Walnut Glenn tract is one of the latest subdivisions in this valley to be placed on the market. It is located on Western avenue, which was formerly called Vine, which is the direct route from the northwest section of the city to Griffith Park. Before being subdivided this was a 25-acre piece of land. It has been cut into lots of 106 feet frontage, and depths ranging from 150 to 130 feet. These lots are being sold for $850 and up.

The lots of this tract are covered with 25-year-old walnut trees, there being on an average eight trees on each of the lots. On this tract are also water, gas, electricity, telephones, in fact, everything that is needed for the strictly up-to-date home place.

In addition to having a large frontage on Western ave., which has for years been a cross-valley road, this tract has a frontage of about 700 feet on Lake street, which will be a part of the proposed Riverside drive, when that highway is completed by the Los Angeles city and county.

The prices that are charged for these lots include the grading and oiling of the streets. Walnut Glenn is about three blocks from the Burbank car line, three blocks from school and one block from the San Fernando road. Lots in this tract are being sold on terms of 25 per cent down and $20 per month. Temporary homes are permitted.

BEEF SUGAR

Twenty years ago the average quantity of sugar obtained from sugar beets in the United States was less than four fifths of the total sugar in the beets. Since then methods of getting the sugar from the beets have been improved and last year more than 87 per cent of the sugar in the beets was secured, according to the Department of Agriculture.

Purchased a very large quantity of lumber just before the recent rise in building materials and are NOW quoting VERY low prices in building. For instance—

A 5-Room Home Can Be Built for as Low as $2400

WHY?

Because we buy in large quantities—cut our framing material by power saw—mix our concrete and plaster by machinery—therefore, we know our prices are right.

We Build Homes—Not Just Houses

Call and get our prices after you have tried all the other contractors. We furnish bonds on all building.

MR. MILTON SILLS

MISS BESSIE LOVE

A California Diamond

Sparkling with Opportunity

Stupendous plans for the development of the great San Fernando Valley are under way. Knowledge of these plans will guide you to the wisest investments you ever made in your life.

Founding a New City

Undoubtedly, the most comprehensive of these plans concerns the founding of the new city, "Cahuenga Park." There is no question but what this gigantic project offers the safest investment and the surest gain to the man of moderate means.

Profiting by the Growth of a New City

"Cahuenga Park" is located at the one logical spot in the entire valley. Constant streams of traffic flow by on Ventura Boulevard and Sherman Way, two of the most important thoroughfares in Southern California. Tree-clad foothills offer attractive homesites of rare beauty. One and one-half miles of level and gently sloping plain will be covered with small farms, estates and homes. At the junction of Ventura Boulevard and Sherman Way a thriving business district is springing up. Values are rising by leaps and bounds; prices will follow upward quickly. Now is the time for you to get in on the ground floor.

Although "Cahuenga Park" has been open to public sale less than 60 days, many of our purchasers have been offered handsome profits.

Come and Inspect "Cahuenga Park"

Be one of the thousands of visitors at "Cahuenga Park." Judge for yourself of the opportunity to make a most profitable investment or to secure for yourself exactly the kind of land you want at a price you'll be glad to pay—with modern improvements included. See the many buildings already under construction.

You Will be the Guest of Miss Bessie Love and Mr. Milton Sills on Sunday, January 21st—at a Surprise Party

These famous motion picture stars, who are themselves heavily interested in local real estate, will be the hosts at a surprise party in "Cahuenga Park" Sunday, to which you are cordially invited. Ask your friends to come with you.

The Hollywood American Legion Band will also play at "Cahuenga Park" on Sunday—stop and listen to it.

Drive out Ventura Boulevard to Sherman Way, just beyond the Hollywood Country Club. Look for the Big Balloon.

Truths in Epigram

It always is right that a man should be able to render a reason for the faith that is in him.—Sydney Smith.

A foe to God was ne'er true friend to man, some sinister intent taints all he does.—Young.

We shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles?—New Testament.

THE BACHELOR BUTTS IN

Assemblyman Cleveland has introduced a divorce bill. By its provisions the only grounds for divorce in this state would be adultery and conviction of a felony. As Mr. Cleveland is a bachelor, it may be assumed that his knowledge of matrimonial complications is largely academic. Anyhow it would be seemly for a bachelor to let somebody else take the initiative. What does he know about domestic warfare?

Just now there is being waged a discussion touching the whole subject broadly. The intent of the woman who precipitated the debate, and who is holding up her end ably, although not convincingly, seems to be the practical abolition of marriage. She would have it succeeded by a series of contracts, to be terminated as easily as any partnership in the business world. Thus she represents one extreme, as the bachelor-reformer of the assembly represents the other. There needs to be no hesitancy in affirming that both are wrong, although both may be able to sustain their positions by arguments that appear plausible enough.

There must be a golden mean. To tie a woman indefinitely to a brutal, neglectful and profligate husband; to hold that two people are indissolubly bound after they have learned, with good reason, to hate or despise or fear each other, would be a cruelty not to be condoned. On the other hand, to permit either to drop, at the impulse of whim or fancy, all the obligations voluntarily assumed, would be a course, that however, volubly defended, could find no basis in morals or in the desire to protect social integrity. The need of a uniform divorce law is generally recognized. If such a law were to be established, its framers, having an eye to the common good, could not take counsel from the extremists of either side.

HUMAN FAITH

An old woman without income, but owning property, offers to deed this to anybody who will agree to give a home to herself and her sister for the rest of their lives. Both the sisters are feeble, and to each the remaining span of life probably is not long.

If the property is valuable enough doubtless there will be those ready to take advantage of the proffer. Similar arrangements have been made in many instances. They have been made between persons of close blood relationship. As a rule they have not turned out happily. The sequel often has been seen in the courts where the original owners seek to get back the property, basing the claim on the allegations of abuse, privation, and the fact that they have come to be considered interlopers. It has not been uncommon for recipients of property under such conditions to seek to rid themselves of the burden of caring for the charges they voluntarily assumed.

Were these old women to transfer the property in the hope of shelter and comfort for their remaining days, the chances are that soon or late they would have to fight at law for their rights, and having no funds, they might be defeated in the end. Therefore, if they have friends, these should counsel them against the proposed rashness.

THE COUNTY JAIL

That the county jail is deplorably overcrowded and inadequate in every respect is a fact of which there could be no denial. Nevertheless, the frequent reports of plots at wholesale escape, fail to be impressive. The theory is that bands of criminals on the outside are ready to assist the band on the inside. With this in view, they carry or send weapons and tools into the building, while lurking in the neighborhood ready to greet the released prisoners, and take them to places of safety.

Granting that the jail is all that a jail should not be, a wholesale escape would be regarded as due to official incompetency and neglect. All the prisoners might be held in the open, without bar or lock if properly guarded. They might be kept within a dead line by determined men. At the same time the loose ruffian herd, intent upon assisting their fellows of the underworld, could be kept at a safe distance from the other side of the line.

There could not be a satisfactory excuse devised for permitting inmates even of a faulty jail to be provided at will with pistols, saws and illicit drugs. When such equipment is provided, the evidence is clear either that attaches have been unfaithful, or that visitors have been admitted under improper conditions.

AGAIN THE PAROLE

The other day a man was arrested as a highway robber. He seems to have been fully identified by his victim. Then the fact transpired that he had once been sentenced to a term of twenty-five years, and that he had served time both in San Quentin and Folsom. He was free on parole.

At about the same time a former honor convict came before a judge for sentence after conviction of at least his third crime, he having served two sentences in part. While an inmate of the penitentiary his conduct had been exemplary, and he was trusted often, apparently because worthy, with work at a distance from the prison and without guard. When last arraigned he told the judge frankly that he could not make good outside. He was sent up for ten years more, an outcome that seemed to be rather to his liking.

If the contention of some reformers that crime is the evidence of disease, is upheld, there must follow the conclusion that the disease indicated may be incurable. When a man of long prison experience, given freedom, and the opportunity to be decent, elects a course of conduct certain to return him to a cell, at least the fact is made clear that he has not been cured.

The great trouble is as to ascertaining the time when a cure has been perfected. The board that has the right of determination doubtless is doing its best, but it has made serious mistakes. It is in some measure owing to these mistakes that the activities of the underworld are so continuous and so deadly.

Forest rangers are trying to prove that devastated timber ranges may be restored. As a matter of fact there is no real doubt on this point if the work be undertaken promptly, before the soil of the bald area has been washed away. The late Mr. Lukens of Pasadena had the same idea and results of the efforts he made to prove its correctness may now be observed in trees of considerable growth, standing thickly on some of the heights below Mount Wilson.

A pickpocket was given probation on condition that he would attend church. Of course he broke his part of the compact, which was a lucky thing for the people who did go to church. The man continued his vocation on the street cars, was caught at it, and doubtless is in a mood to accept probation again.

CUBA

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Cuba is comparatively a small country. It is not a very large island to the south of the United States.

But the position and the history of this country render it the key to the South American situation.

The relation of the great English-speaking republic, the United States of America, with the Spanish-speaking republics to the south of it is of vital importance. On account of the difference in language and customs and temperament it has to be handled with much delicacy.

On account of the fact that the United States is so much more wealthy and powerful than the other republics it is compelled to act with great circumspection.

Cuba is the one Spanish-speaking country where the United States has a welcome and a legitimate influence because of our part in bringing about its freedom.

America is very fortunate in having as its representative in Cuba such an official as General Crowder. He understands the Cubans, he likes them, and they like him.

Everybody believes him to be thoroughly honest, and, in addition to that, he is efficient and clear-headed.

Best of all, he is endeavoring to enable the Cubans to govern themselves and is not a tyrant of officious paternalism.

Cuba is at present negotiating a loan of $50,000,000 in the United States. A good deal has been said about the various elements of wealth of the island, which are secured for this loan. It should be remembered, however, that it is impossible to collect a debt from any country unless the people want to pay it.

The best security for this loan is the presence of General Crowder in Havana, which is the strongest guaranty of integrity and honesty.

The trouble with Cuba is that it has always been governed by others. For years it was under the Spanish rule. This developed a habit of thinking that the government is something to be opposed. What Cuba needs is to realize that the government is their government and something to be assisted and helped in every way by every citizen.

It is to this end that General Crowder is working.

It would be a great calamity to remove him, although his period of retirement from the army is at hand. He should be continued in office.

Our relations with the whole of Spanish-speaking America depend more upon his personality than upon any other one thing.

The Havana chamber of commerce recently issued a statement in which it declared that, on account of the peculiar difficulties of the present situation in Cuba, it is not conceivable that any one else could successfully replace General Crowder without much loss of time for study, and such delay at this critical moment would invite certain and irreparable disaster. It also declared that the commerce and industry of Cuba might not survive the collapse of confidence which would follow a change in American representation at this time, a change which the people of the island would never understand.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

QUERIES

To Phil. Wandtke, Chicago, Ill.: "Shorter working days" is of course correct. "Shorter hours" is figuratively correct.

To Morris Katz, New York City: Use the past tense (went, had, was, struck, made, threw) when you are expressing an action that was completed at some specific past time whether or not it is expressed; as, He threw the ball to me; She was expressed; as, He threw the ball to me; They went to Denver last week. Use the present perfect tense (has gone, has had, has been, have struck, have made, has thrown) when you are expressing an action that has taken place at any time up to the moment of making the assertion; as, he has thrown the ball to me (it may have just happened; may be it happened two minutes ago); She has been at one of the meetings; They have gone to Denver (may be they just went; may be they went a week ago).

To L. H. Osman, Chicago, Ill.: You ask whether the following sentences are correct: "We have not as yet received this item and write you inquiring when you will be able to send it to us;" "Expressions of such a nature received from friends are wonderful incentive." From the standpoint of careful diction wonderful is not a nicely chosen word in the latter of the foregoing sentences. The article should not have been omitted. The singular incentive is correct. "Will be able" should be changed to "shall be able." Therefore, re-construct to "are a great incentive." Inquiring is correct in the first sentence, but "write you" is superfluous. Change to "and are now inquiring when you shall be able to send it to us."

C. M. Gibbons, Chicago, Ill.: Would it not be the right word in the following sentence: "I would like to see the latter phrase used in substitution every time." Your criticism of this sentence taken from a national magazine should be emphasized. The right word is should. "I would like" is always wrong. You also quote the following: "either one of these need any comment;" "if any one is thinking at all when they write;" "I don't think we would miss that phrase." The plural verb need should be changed to needs, to agree with its subject either one; they should be changed to he, to agree with the singular any one, and write should therefore be changed to writes; would should be changed to should, as should express simple future and no more than that was intended.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

There is the story of the man who stood afar and contemplated the snow-capped peak. White and alluring in the sunlight. Rearing its snowy crest in the upper air. Pure and cold and beautiful.

The gazer stood in the valley below. The flowers bloomed and the fields were green and all was warm and delightful. For in the valley it was summer. And only the crest of the far peak signified the winter's perpetual snow.

Daily the man contemplated the mountain peak. Now pure white and now pink and rosy and always alluring.

With its snow-mantled top rising into the clouds and above them. In the valley below were thousands who toiled and labored and lived serene and happy lives.

The mountain top rose far above all this serene valley with its myriad souls. Majestic, white, shimmering.

And the man who gazed upon it declared he would learn the secrets of the peak. He would climb the mountain.

Breast its snows and glaciers and winds and cold and rise to the summit. For there would be glory.

And through the days he heard the voice of Ambition. Bidding him leave the valleys and rise to the summit of the peak.

Whispering of the majesty of the upper places. Urging him to leave ease and comfort and serenity.

Telling him of the paths of glory that awaited in the snows above him.

And so the man left his valley and began to climb.

The trails were rugged and steep and the rocks were mighty and the cliffs overhung him and the heart and soul of him were put to the test.

But he kept on. The people were fewer now and fewer yet and as he rose he found no companionship.

He was in the company of dreams. For the ascent was too difficult for men to achieve.

And then came the region of snow and ice. The winds howled and flurries of ice stung his face.

The solitudes were majestic but cold. He dug his ax into the ice and gripped the ice and rocks and climbed on.

And upward he rose to the mountain which Ambition had said was Glory.

There was little of chance to look about him. The business of climbing was too difficult.

There was no human voice to cheer him. No warm hand to clasp. He was alone.

And the peak was not so alluring as he thought it when he looked at it from the lower valley of content.

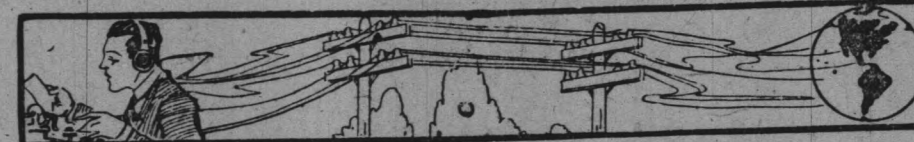

It was rugged and precipitous and cold and wind swept.

After all a barren thing he thought. Not at all what Ambition had pictured it.

And at last he stood alone on the peak and a shining figure with frozen breath and chill vapor for a cloak held out to him an icy hand that chilled him to the marrow.

"Who are you?" said the climber. "I am Glory," said the frozen one.

And the man said: "Perhaps had I known I had staid in the valley and not sought thee on the mountain top."

Songs of the Poets

Song—By James Thomson (1834-1882)

Let my voice ring out and over the earth, Through all the grief and strife;

With a golden joy in a silver mirth; Thank God for life!

Let my voice swell out through the great abyss To the azure dome above,

With a chord of faith in the harp of bliss: Thank God for love!

Let my voice thrill out beneath and above, The whole world through:

O my Love and Life, O my Life and Love, Thank God for you!

IDOLS AND IDOLATRY

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

When I was in China last year I saw, deep in the mountains of Kwantung Province, in an ancient temple devoted to the worship of Buddha, a small Chinese boy making an idol of mud and cotton.

He sat back of the great altar before which hundreds of his countrymen bowed in homage to three giant gilded figures, while 200 priests intoned the sutras. When in the course of time the great gilt figures shall fall to pieces there will be others to replace them, and one of them was even then taking shape beneath the little fingers of the small Chinese who sat cross-legged behind the altar humming at his work.

The American smiled and felt superior, oh very superior indeed. They did not worship idols, or they deluded themselves into believing they did not.

Well, perhaps we do not worship figures of wood and stone, just the same many of us, most of us, are idolaters because we worship the creations of our own fancy. It is not such a far cry from an idol made of mud and cotton and gold paint, to one made of thoughts and prejudice and gilded with fancy.

I've just been listening with contempt akin to pity to a woman defending her idol from which she conceived an attack. Her idol is an 'idea, one made of prejudice and imagination; but she has gilded it with love even as the great Buddha of the little Chinese was gilded with luminous paint.

This woman can't advance a step in life because she has found herself to her idol and she tumbles from every fact that she thinks likely to effect her belief in the child of her ignorance.

Yesterday I was called to help a business man, reckoned successful and a happy citizen. He was miserable because he believed that people were beginning to love things of which he disapproved. He, too, had an idol; he had made it with his own fancy and had clad it in a raiment of greenbacks and official papers. And he lived and worshiped it. He told me that he could not sleep nights for thinking that his children might not care for his idol and he wanted to know of me how he could make them believe in it as he did.

I told him the story of the little Chinese boy and his mud and cotton Buddha. The man smiled wanly. He could not grasp the relation between himself and the lad.

The saddest woman I know is one whose idol is an ancient pile of brick and mortar which she calls home. It is full of ugly things to which she devotes her years, useless things most of them; but things that sap her strength and consume her energy. But she defends her idol savagely and she told me flatly that I was a vandal for questioning the wisdom of her worship. I'd advised a small modern house.

Heigh-ho, what a world it is and what a gigantic business is the making of idols. Why should we laugh at the Chinese?

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

JUST A JUDGE

[Louisville Post]

We note the following jingle in the columns of our temporarily pessimistic contemporary, the News, of Elizabethtown:

The hand that rocks the cradle Now is stained with nicotine, And the foot upon the rocker Likes to step on gasoline.

Oh, cheer up, neighbor. The woman who steps on the gasoline, or, in other words, takes out the family car, probably takes the babies along with her, and the babies are better off in the pure air than rocking in a stuffy cradle. As for the hand stained with nicotine, does not our friend know that the real thing calls for the cigarette holder for the woman who smokes a cigarette? And the Post sticks by its guns upon one point. If it is improper for women to smoke, it is improper for men. Do all the men who object to women smoking refrain from smoking themselves?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

Capital punishment is the one protection that society has against the murderer. When applied, according to the terms of the statute, it is a very effective protection. Even though maudlin juries, sob-sisters of the press, and trick lawyers, succeed often in shielding the murderer against punishment, occasionally one does get justice. This is exactly what all cold-blooded killers fear. They do not fear life imprisonment, knowing there is no such thing. "Life imprisonment" is a meaningless phrase in this state.

There are thugs who lie in wait in streets and on highways; who enter houses by violence; who stop and rob pedestrians, and are in every instance ready to slay at a sign of resistance, or out of mere wantonness. Society owes them nothing but a rope. It is not under the slightest obligation to support them to the end of their useless days. Every time it undertakes so to support them, it encourages others of the type.

Instead of smoothing the path of the cut-throat, the proper and sensible course would be to end the path abruptly by means of a gallows.

War on bootleggers has resulted directly in one death in Los Angeles. The victim, murdered in open daylight, had been a bootlegger himself, but had changed his tactics and become very active in apprehending offenders of the type. Conscious that his former associates were desperate men, doubtless he was aware of the risk he ran.

It seems probable, at this writing, that the assassin will be caught. When caught and duly tried, his speedy hanging would be an act of the greatest propriety.

A deacon who is supposed to have been a participant in the Ku Klux crimes that have disgraced Louisiana, was on the stand the other day. He was asked where he had been the night of the murders. His lawyer would not let him answer lest he incriminate himself. The judge solemnly assured him that he had a constitutional right to refuse to reply if the reply would be incriminating.

In other words, a guilty man, by the very act of keeping his mouth shut, preserves his innocence through the silent confession that he is guilty.

Sometimes one wonders that so much of human foolishness ever became incorporated in the statutes.

Brishane pauses in his hysteria over the wrongs of Germany long enough to remark calmly, "It is not necessary for Americans to grow sentimental or hysterical about European affairs."

Then with a series of shrieks, he resumes the tearing of his hair.

The house declined to cut the army down more, for which the country will be grateful. The establishment already had been carved to the bone, however.

A student of the University of Southern California resented an attempt to haze him, by shooting one of the hazers, not fatally. Perhaps the young man with a bullet hole through his foot may be more capable of appreciating a joke, even if it be on himself.

An individual has a right to resist physical assault, but under some conditions this loses him the reputation of being a real sport.

Mayor Rolph of San Francisco made a speech that was broadcast by radio. Being anxious to learn how large an audience he had been addressing, he asked for reports by wire, collect. At last account, his telegraph bills were $3000, and still mounting. He had heard from almost every place less distant than the moon.

Happily Mr. Rolph is just as ready to laugh at the mayor of San Francisco as at anybody else. He'll pay the bill with a smile.

Some of Sheriff Traeger's star boarders have fooled him again. He had granted them certain freedom from ordinary restraint "on honor." There were thirty in the lot, and sixteen ran away.

The sheriff is not to blame. He made a bargain and lived up to his part of the terms. He could give the prisoners a chance, and did so, but he could not supply them with honor.

The usual act for abolition of capital punishment has been introduced at the legislature. There should be a pigeon-hole found for it at once.

There seems to be no reason why Germany should appeal to the United States against a Franco-Belgian invasion. The present is not the psychological moment for butting in.

The town of Monrovia complains of the presence of beggars, solicitors and book agents. Isn't this getting the classes a little mixed?

There is little or no excuse for begging, but a solicitor may have something to sell that you really want, and many good books are distributed through agents and in no other way.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

After watching the prince perform for the past two years I have come to the conclusion that failure is never external, but always internal. And that it can be cured.

When I say "failure" I mean the financial sort. Ruin. Hard luck. Lost friends. Patches. All that sort of thing. The prince had about the hardest run of hard luck I ever knew. But he has come out of it, because he has refused to be burdened with inhibitions or false pride or delusions of grandeur.

"I am here," he said with a smile when he first escaped from Russia. "Very lucky. I have plenty money. By and by I marry nice, rich, American girl, yes? Then all be well."

But the nice, rich, American girls did not care to take on any bankrupt prince. We are beginning to find out that there were about as many princes in Russia as there were cotton pickers in Mississippi, and of about the same value to society. The prince would have been an ornament in that circle to which it had pleased heaven to call him. Unfortunately heaven reversed the call.

One year ago the prince was broke to the wide. He had no credit anywhere and his new-made friends were avoiding him, that being the only alternative to adopting him. He came in one day with the usual beaming smile to announce that he no longer had any social position, any clothes, or any money.

"I shall get a job," said he cheerfully. "I know horses. So I shall work with horses."

An ungrateful horse broke his leg and he went to the charity ward. One would say that failure in his case had been as complete as possible. Then he became a taxi driver. He bought a car on tick, circularized his former friends, and has worked up a business that is the envy of his rivals.

"I've forgotten that prince business," he says, in his nice new Americanese. "In ten years I'll have money to throw at the birds."

If he had looked about as a prince he would have been in the workhouse in six months.

Those Beautiful Homesites In the Hills Are Now Open

We have been deluged for many months, with inquiries as to when the beautiful rolling hills, lying to the East of the Verdugo Road in SPARR HEIGHTS, would be open for homesite reservations.

The plat is at last completed and we invite you to inspect them.

At an elevation of over 1500 feet and easy of access, they command a view over the whole of the lovely Verdugo Valley with the GREEN VERDUGO HILLS cutting the sky-line on one side and the Sierra Madres towering on the other.

At their feet runs the most picturesque boulevard leading out of Los Angeles. The OAKMONT COUNTRY CLUB HOUSE with its mammoth swimming pool and 18 hole golf course will occupy the immediate foreground while the handsome Community Center Building will be within walking distance.

Throughout the vast 1500 acre tract, handsome curved boulevards will wind. Bridle paths will climb through secluded canyons to the mountains' crest. Handsome homes will crown the hills on every side and an artistically planned segregated business center will supply every domestic and economic need.

Here in a climate famous for its salubrity, in the midst of scenic beauty unsurpassed, with a rich soil and protected by rigid restrictions, a wealthy, cultivated community of 40,000 is building.

Can you find a finer place in which to establish your home?

BUSINESS CYCLE DANGEROUS IDEA

Catch-Phrase Will Upset Many Business Men and Investors

By ROGER BABSON

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Jan. 20.—"I don't know which is more perilous to disregard the business cycle altogether, or to get a smattering of it without really understanding it," says Roger W. Babson, in a statement issued today. "Many executives think they have got the business cycle by the tail and that their fortunes are made. These superficial thinkers who have picked up the business cycle as the latest catch-phrase are simply playing with edged tools and are going to get badly cut. "It is astounding how the public has taken up the idea. From boot-black stands to international conferences, the latest fad is the business cycle. If it were merely talk, little harm would be done. But many business men, bankers, investors and government officials are making real commitments on the basis of an imaginary cycle. It is high time that somebody get up in meeting and do some plain talking, and tell people that we are all sitting around a powder keg, if we continue to cherish this delusion of a fixed cycle. "Strictly speaking, there is no such thing as a business cycle," continued Mr. Babson. "It is a serious blunder to assume that there will be three years (or other fixed interval) of over-expansion and then three years of depression, followed by another three years of over-expansion and another three years of depression. To nine people out of ten this is what the business cycle seems to mean, a periodic procession of booms and bumps, each lasting the same number of years. There is absolutely nothing in this idea, and any executive who attempts to base his plans thereon will probably ruin the enterprise for which he is responsible. The warning applies also to bankers, investors and statesmen. "My advice is to get it out of your head immediately that business fluctuates in three-year periods or any other fixed intervals. The real principle of the business movement is that of action and reaction. Namely, a period of over-expansion tends to be followed by an equivalent period of depression. And when I say 'equivalent' I am taking into account the two factors of duration and intensity. Moderate business activity prolonged for several years is equivalent to extreme activity of shorter duration. "To take the latest example, there was a period of over-expansion covering the years 1915-1919. This would tend to be balanced by a compensating period of depression. But this compensation might take a variety of forms. If there had been a prodigious and excessive crash in 1920, lasting only a year, this would have been sufficient compensation. It would have offset four years of over-expansion. What actually happened was a sharp decline, not the worst imaginable, but still a severe drop. The period has already extended

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE STRANGER

Serious-minded little maid,
Wondering and half afraid,
Half inclined to speak with me,
Half disposed to let me be;
Hesitating yet, and shy,
Half a twinkle in your eye,
Half in doubt and half in fear,
Staying neither far nor near.

How I wonder what you see
With those eyes that question me:
What the instinct bids you know:
If I may be friend or foe;
Fawnlike, full of grace and sweet,
Ready with fast flying feet
In the orchard's deepest shade
To find cover, little maid.

Grave and curious little lass,
Like a wild bird in the grass,
Still intently watching me,
With your wings half spread, to see
If my smile bodes good or ill,
Willing to make friends and still Undecided if to stay
Here and near or fly away.

Serious-minded little maid,
When, with smiles and unafraid,
O'er the lawn you come to me,
Stranger to you though I be,
When your curious eyes have tried
Soul with mine and, satisfied,
Looked still into mine and smiled,
Blessed am I, little child.

Blessed am I to be just
Worthy of your childish trust,
More than conqueror of kings
When the wild bird of your wings
Bids you fly not forth but see
Something tender, kind, in me;
Oh, the gladness you have laid
At my heart's gate, little maid!

more than two years. Considering both the severity of the drop and the time that has elapsed, it is plain that we have nearly paid the bill in full.

"By itself, time is meaningless. The question whether depression has lasted a month or a decade, has no significance, whatsoever. By itself, intensity means nothing. The question whether depression has been drastic or trivial has no significance. However, when these two are combined, when you get the product of time and intensity, you are on a sound basis. This—and this only—is the true measure of depression and the real interpretation of the business cycle.

"At the present juncture, what would be the result of sudden and reckless inflation? This would mean that instead of progressing in an orderly way up from depression into prosperity, we would be attempting a short-cut. We would be trying to evade the tail-end of our quota of depression. There would be a setback which would last until that quota was completed. At the moment, there is no sign of such inflation. The indications are that the remaining fragment of the allotted depression will be wiped out in due course, and with a clean slate we shall be ready for the next period of prosperity.

"Will our next period of prosperity be big or small? The question is peculiarly difficult. After a big period of over-expansion, a big action, it is practically certain that there will be a big period of depression, a big reaction. Knowing the action, you can forecast the reaction—but the rule is hard to work both ways. To illustrate, if you stretch a spring a certain amount you can forecast approximately what will be the rebound. But you can't so easily foretell how far the spring will be stretched the next time. Hence, periods of prosperity or action are far more difficult to forecast than periods of depression or reaction. "However, we know that there is a general tendency toward equality. In other words, in the long run, periods of prosperity tend to be about equal. They vary greatly in duration, and they vary greatly in intensity. But the intense periods are usually short, and the mild periods are usually long, so that the area or mass is remarkably constant. Though the form of the next period of prosperity is still undetermined, we know in advance with reasonable assurance that its area or mass will be approximately that of previous periods. Shortly after it has begun to develop, there may be a clue to its probable form, whether intense and brief, or moderate and prolonged.

"Besides this principle of action and reaction, there is another feature of the business cycle that can safely be applied in practical ways. Every business and every locality has its own particular place in the cycle. The bond market, for example, is usually far in the lead, declining or advancing before other factors show a change of trend. The stock market also has a pronounced lead. Though not so prompt as the security markets, building is somewhat in the van as compared with other lines of business activity. Near the other extreme is retail trade, which is a laggard both on the up-swings and the down-swings. Comparing different sections of the country, the manufacturing centers tend to lead, and the regions of production of raw materials tend to lag. Comparing the physical quantity of business with its dollar value, quantity advances or declines before value. In a store, the number of sales slips (physical quantity) tends to decline before the cash register readings (amount of sales in dollars). In a construction industry, the number of permits tends to decline before their value in dollars.

"But the thing of real importance is not merely to know this sequence—which is a fairly simple proposition—but also to know how fast the period of depression or over-expansion is being run off. For example, early in 1920, the stock market turned down. The retailer who noticed this reversal and attempted to estimate when the lightning would strike his own business would have been at a loss to set the date. But presently when general business sank below par and began to sweep out an area of depression, then the retailer was able to forecast. Knowing how much depression was due and how fast it was being worked off, and knowing also his relative position

MARY E. LINDSAY GOES TO YALE BROTHERS

Mary E. Lindsay, who for the past year has been operating a real estate and rental business at 1017 East Palmer avenue, has just closed her office at that place, and is now connected with the Yale Brothers Realty company, 249 N. Brand boulevard, where she will be pleased to meet her friends and patrons.

Mrs. Lindsay has lived in Glendale for the past five years. During the past year, although operating in real estate, she had been unusually active in rentals, and has come to be known as "the rent specialist" of Glendale.

Hereafter Mrs. Lindsay will handle all kinds of real estate, insurance and rentals. She is a member of the Glendale Realty Board and is one of the active realtors in Glendale.

In the cycle, the retailer could estimate very closely when his turn was coming.

"To illustrate the real meaning of the business cycle, one of the best analogies is to compare it with electricity. Call prosperity electric power and suppose that you are entitled to 10,000 kilowatt hours. If you run your outfit at 10 kilowatts you last 1,000 hours. If at 1,000 kilowatts, you last only ten hours. Or you can compromise at 100 kilowatts and last 100 hours. The word 'business cycle' is really not the word to use. 'Cycle' implies time. It is area or mass which is the important measurement. There is no real need of either over expansion or depression. We could run along at a steady trend indefinitely, with cycles practically eliminated. The principle of action and reaction is absolutely sound, but the popular conception of the cycle is both unsound and dangerous.

"To be concrete—business is now statistically at normal. By the so-called 'business cycle' we are at a bad center. The Babson chart shows this very clearly. But this is no reason why we must stay there or why the next movement will not be for the better or for the worse. It all depends upon how we act—act toward one another and act toward the rest of the world. When Greed is enthroned we are headed for depression; when Service is in the saddle we are headed for prosperity. If there was less talk about 'business cycles' and more about 'business ethics' it would be better for all of us."

BIG BUSINESS IN AUTOS FORECAST FOR 1923

California's motor car sales in December last proved to be the second largest in the automotive industry, also of the year 1922. It fell behind November, 1922, by just 402 sales. From a percentage gain standpoint, December, 1922, proved to be 99 per cent larger than the like month of 1921.

As former records have also shown, the passenger car division of the industry registers a larger per cent increase than that of the truck industry. In December, 1921, there were 7559 passenger cars registered by the Motor Vehicle Department in California. In comparison to these figures the same department's records bring forth a total for December, 1922, of 15,409, thus leaving a passenger car gain of 7850 sales, the equivalent to 103 percent.

The truck end of the business also shows a wonderful increase. The registrations for this state last December were 1654, whereas in December of 1921, 928 registrations was the goal reached. Analysis of these figures shows a gain of 626 truck sales, or 67 per cent to the good.

Summarizing the industry as a whole for the month of December, 1922, the figures represented are 16,963, which is just $475 more sales, or 99 per cent better than what was transacted in December of 1921.

The forty-seven northern counties of the state of California seem to have played some sort of a trick, not known to the writer, on the eleven southern counties. Southern California in November held the percentage increase by a 4 per cent margin, whereas in the month of December the north claims the honor, in percentage gain, by a 20 percent margin, the latter's gain being 112 per cent and the former 92 percent better than the like month of 1921.

Dividing the industry again, in Northern California the passenger car business made the phenomenal gain of 114 percent, equivalent to the 3298 more sales made in December of 1922 than the twelfth month a year ago. The increasing number of commercial vehicles in the north is also astonishing when we compare 599 new truck entries registered in December last as against only 320 a year before, the advance in the commercial field being 279 sales, or 87 percent better than the mark set in 1921.

If the automotive industry can be used as a barometer on all other lines of endeavor, neither Northern or Southern California merchants will be doing any crepe hanging this year, for from all indications, 1923 will even surpass the most remarkable record that the year 1922 reached in the state of California.

EL CAMINO REAL WILL SOON BE SIGNED

Motoring tourists visiting California this year will find El Camino Real, the recognized route of pleasure travel when California was a part of Spain, thoroughly sign-posted by the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California from San Francisco to San Diego. The first sign was erected last week near Mission Dolores in San Francisco by a sign-posting crew directed by Engineer J. W. Johnson of the California State Automobile Association.

This road, which the two automobile clubs are re-signing at the solicitation of the El Camino Real Association, joined the twenty-one Missions, three Pueblos and four Presidios in the earlier days of California. The greater portion of this highway, which has long been one of California's main thoroughfares, has been incorporated in the system of state highways. It is a continuous road over 700 miles in length and passes through scenes of varied beauty and interest. It is now marked by 400 bell guide posts, the bell being adopted as emblematic of the work and intent of the founders of the missions. These bells are being repainted and new signs with white backgrounds and green letters giving the mileage to the nearest Mission are being erected by the automobile clubs.

The California State Automobile Association will sign the highway to the north boundary of San Luis Obispo County, where the Automobile Club of Southern California will take up the work and carry it on to San Diego. With the completion of the work this historic road of California can be traveled by a stranger without difficulty. The bells which are being repainted were donated by different organizations, citizens, boards of supervisors, women's clubs, Native Sons and Daughters, pioneer societies and individuals.

ARE YOU USING THE PROPER OIL?

There is a great deal of misunderstanding regarding lubrication of the gas engine. It is immaterial whether cylinder oil is made from paraffin base or asphaltum base petroleum, the amount of carbon deposited depends entirely upon the refining. An oil may be of the proper viscosity, that is, thickness at high temperature. This gives it its lubricating value, that is, its ability to maintain a film between the moving parts. Next it must have the proper fire test, that is, it must burn away cleanly after it has done its work. If the flash or fire point is too high it will form a tarry substance which in time burns to a hard carbon deposit. Both paraffin and asphalt are hydrocarbons, and both burn down into a carbon residue, so it really makes little difference to the consumer which he uses so long as the oil which goes into the engine has the proper viscosity, flash and fire test, low free-carbon content, freedom from adulterants, coloring matter, acid or alkali. There are perfectly good cylinder oils from asphaltum base crude and likewise from paraffin. The one thing to consider is, do you have the proper oil for your engine? Discard all sources of supply, use only the highest grade of oils.

A plan is being considered in Detroit, Mich., which will enable that city to test the mentality of prospective automobile drivers.

MICHIGAN FIGHTS OVER ONE CENT GAS TAX

A stiff battle to defeat the proposed State tax on gasoline and auto trucks will be waged in the Michigan state legislature now in session. Already forces representing manufacturing sections are being called upon by their constituents to combat the measure.

Sentiment through the farming districts of the state is strongly in favor of the gasoline tax. It is safe to say that the automobile manufacturers will strive to bring the greatest pressure to bear to defeat the proposed tax.

The tax commission appointed two years ago to discover some means of distributing the taxation more uniformly has advised the legislature to levy a tax of 1 cent a gallon, which it estimates would yield about $3,000,000 a year. The commission believes that this tax would not injure the automobile industry and that it would not be felt seriously by car owners.

For some time the farming element of Michigan has endeavored to bring about such legislation, the tax to go toward highway improvement. Prominent automobile men of the state have combated the scheme on the ground that the burden of good roads in the state would thus be borne by the great majority of motorists residing in Detroit and other cities to the great advantage of the rural communities.

WHAT WILL 1923 LICENSE PLATES LOOK LIKE?

Perhaps you would like to know just what the new California license plates are going to look like this year. They are all made up and ready to be used soon after February 1.

Instead of having the numbers all in an unbroken row, as they were during 1922, they will be divided in the center this year so that they can be more readily discerned by a hasty glance.

The numerals will be white on a black background, which makes them stand out very clearly. The division will be made by the name of the state and the numeral of the year—"23." This makes a very neat license plate.

Officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California in all the branch offices of the organization report an unprecedented rush for applications during the first week of the year. These applications, being taken for club members indicate something of the wild scramble that motorists of the state will undergo when general applications can be made. Auto club members are fortunate in being able to avoid the scurry promised the general run of automobile owners.

From experiences in various branch offices of the auto club, it appears that thousands of motor car owners will suffer some delay in making their applications unless they see to it that their certificates of registration are in proper form, with new addresses indicated, and perfectly legible. If the certificate has become covered with oil or dirt or otherwise mutilated, it must be exchanged for a new one so that it can be deciphered by the authorities.

Information in regard to state license applications will be furnished from this time on to the motorists public by all branch offices of the automobile club.

AUTO THIEVES TO BE CAUGHT BY RADIO

Auto thief catching is to be put on the latest and most scientific basis with the radio by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The license numbers of all autos stolen in this part of the state are to be broadcasted each night by the radio station in the west now operated by the Los Angeles Times. Information in regard to stolen cars will then reach all parts of America in the quickest possible time.

Not only will the numbers of stolen machines be broadcasted, but the club is also giving a comprehensive program daily over the radio on subjects dear to the heart of every motor car user. Information on recent road changes as affected by weather conditions, safety talks, news of auto hunts and fishing and the solving of legal questions will also be included.

This service on the part of the Auto Club will bring unlimited fame to the Southern division of California, as the information thus sent out will reach more than 600,000 listeners all over the western hemisphere nightly.

This is the first time in the history of motoring that the radio has been employed by any organization as a means for broadcasting notes of vital interest to motorists on the same day that they occur and other clubs in the eastern cities are watching this section of the country with particular interest as a result.

MORE ITALIAN CARS NOW IN BRAZIL

Total imports of passenger cars and trucks into Rio de Janeiro from January 1 to September 13, 1922, numbered 599, 491 of which came from the United States, 47 from Italy and 32 from Germany. Imports into Santos for the same period totaled 224 cars and trucks, 135 of which came from the United States, 72 from Italy, and 9 from Germany. Italian makes seem to enjoy greater popularity in the Santos district and about 32 per cent of the motor vehicles imported were of Italian origin, as compared with less than 8 per cent in the Rio de Janeiro district. Italian motor vehicles are very well known in all parts of Brazil.

EQUALIZE LOAD ON CHASSIS

To distribute loads evenly on an automobile, the driver of the car should assign seats to the passengers. Baggage should not be placed on one side of the running board when there is nothing on the other. An unbalanced car makes it difficult to drive, particularly on soft or wet roads, and is hard on springs.

THE RAYS OF HEAD LAMPS

When a car is used for night driving, head lamps should be properly focused. Place the car in front of a white wall so that the lamps face the object at a distance of 20 feet and try the effect of changing the adjusting screw back and forth until the best effect is obtained.

This Is the License Plate That Will Grace California Registered Cars During 1923

DID YOU KNOW POPULARITY OF THESE AUTO FACTS? CLOSED BODY GROWS

- 1—That the 1923 outlook in the automotive industry is unquestionably good.
 - 2—That 1923 passenger car production will probably equal that of 1922, which according to present indications, will set a new high mark for the industry.
 - 3—That truck production will show an increase in 1923.
 - 4—That renewals during 1923 will alone require 1,800,000 vehicles.
 - 5—That the re-entry of the farmers into the buying market will add substantially to car and truck sales.
 - 6—That there will be good export for the automotive industry, particularly in the South American and Far Eastern areas.
 - 7—That the financial situation in the industry during 1923 will be marked by continuation of keen competition, strengthening the well-established companies and putting the others to the final test.
 - 8—That fundamental credit conditions will be sound and well-stabilized.
 - 9—That car manufacturers are giving greater emphasis to closed cars, sport models and light sixes.
 - 10—That more and more accessories and devices, which in the past have been regarded as extras, are being adopted as standard equipment by accessory manufacturers.
- The London General Omnibus company, in England, spends over a million dollars a year in licenses for their vehicles.
- Don't be sparing with oil anywhere.

ONE CENT TAX ON GASOLINE IS URGED

At the regular monthly meeting of the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association held at the Los Angeles Athletic Club recently, there was considerable discussion on the used car problem. The basis of the discussion was the unreasonable demands made by owners of cars when they are turned in on new cars. The matter of a central appraising bureau was also considered.

There was also a general discussion on matters that will come before the Legislature, pertaining to the good roads of California, and the Association passed a resolution, as follows:

"Whereas, There is apparent need of additional revenue for road purposes in the state, city and county highway systems for proper maintenance, and

"Whereas, A gasoline tax of 1 cent per gallon levied for road purposes against gasoline used in motor vehicles is fair in principle in that it automatically distributes itself in proportion to road uses;

"Therefore, Be it resolved, That the Motor Car Dealers' Association of Los Angeles, endorses the levying of such a tax, provided that:

"First—The proceeds to be used exclusively for maintenance. Original construction should in the future, as it has in the past, be made from the proceeds of bond issues.

"Second—That the proceeds be distributed between the state and counties, one-third to the state and two-thirds to the counties, the distribution between counties to be made on a basis of the amount of gasoline sales in each respective county; providing further, that the respective counties agree in turn to take over the maintenance of an equitable part of the major street system of the cities within the county limits.

HUGE GROWTH IN STAGE TRAVEL

Indicative of the growth of the auto stage travel in California is the announcement that while Sacramento union stages carried 150,000 passengers during 1921, the estimate for 1922 is 500,000.

Stage routes radiate out of Sacramento like the spokes of a wheel, and according to J. E. McMillan, manager of the union terminals at that place, there are now 11 union lines. A number of other lines also operate.

AUTO BRANDING MACHINE INVENTED

A machine has been invented for marking automobiles, motors, chassis, bodies and parts, something after the manner in which ranch animals are branded in the West. The device is a drilling machine, which automatically drills any given number, letter or symbol, or any manufacturer or license number into the motor, body, or any part of the car. The numbering machine is operated by electricity, and any number can be drilled in a few minutes.

AUTO CLUB GIVES TRAFFIC RULES

In an effort to correct confusion which apparently exists in the minds of large numbers of motorists, the legal department of the Automobile Club of Southern California has just issued a correct statement in regard to the right-of-way rule which now pertains on the boulevards and streets of this state.

According to official statements approximately eighty percent of all accidents in which motorists are involved occur at street and road intersections. Collisions at intersections, say the club legal authorities, are attributed to excessive speed, incompetent handling of automobiles and to ignorance or utter disregard of the right-of-way rule.

This statement knocks in the head two erroneous ideas that are quite common, one of which is that an automobile on a regular boulevard or a main traveled thoroughfare in the city has the right-of-way over automobiles entering from side streets. This is not the rule. The other wrong idea is that an automobile that first enters the street intersection always has the right-of-way. This is not the correct test.

The California Motor Vehicle Act makes no mention of street intersections, boulevards or main traveled thoroughfares. Instead it prescribes a rule with reference to right-of-way of vehicles at a point where their lines of travel intersect. Under this rule the operator of a vehicle approaching a cross street must first know whether any vehicles are approaching from his left. He must then quickly determine whether there is any danger of collision and at what point the vehicles will collide if they maintain their rate of speed.

If the driver on the right is closest to the probable point of collision, he has the right-of-way. The driver on the right also has the right-of-way if the two vehicles are the same distance from this point. If the driver on the right is further than the probable point of collision than the vehicle approaching from the left, then the vehicle on the left has the right-of-way.

"CHINK" CARS ONLY USE HIGHWAYS

Motor traffic has been opened on the Wehlsen-Chefoo highway from Wehlsen to Hwanghsien, a distance of 143 miles. The remainder of road is expected to be opened within one or two months. The Ministry of Communications has granted monopoly rights to motor cars, and a service of about 20 cars has been started, charging $3.80 per passenger for the 7-hour trip. The granting of monopoly rights will keep the native carts with narrow wheel rims off the road and it will thus be possible to keep it repaired. This is a step in the right direction for good roads in China, says Consul Gauss, Tsinsen.

LOW GEAR OVERHEATING

When it is necessary to employ the low gear for a considerable period it is possible to obviate the overheating that would ordinarily result by keeping the mixture in the leanest possible condition.

MAIN CAUSES OF ACCIDENT

Mishaps to mechanism.
Foolish chances taken.
Misjudging road distance or speed.

$8,262,987.35 IN STATE AUTO FUNDS

Charles J. Chen, chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles, submits the following report concerning the Motor Vehicle Department for eleven months of the year 1922, commencing February 1 and ending December 31.

Total receipts in the motor vehicle fund $7,824,058.75
Total receipts in the transfer and operator's fund 428,928.60
Total net receipts $8,262,987.35

The department is allowed to expend 10 per cent of the motor vehicle fund for maintenance and the total expenditures of the department for the period of eleven months was less than 8 per cent, of which but a little over 3 per cent was used from the motor vehicle fund. This is considered a very favorable showing in the reduction of the cost of operation.

During the year 1920 the cost of operation of the department was 9.75 per cent out of the motor vehicle fund, and the total cost was 13.95 per cent. Registrations have shown a 20 per cent increase during the past year, and during the year 1922 there was an increase of over 21 per cent in registrations.

Delinquent registration fees to an amount in excess of $150,000 were collected through the efforts of the inspectors. These fees were collected from individuals who were endeavoring to evade the registration tax.

An example of the work done by an inspector during the period of ten months in 1921 collected $7,888.85. During the same period in 1922 this same inspector collected $12,437.35 in the same district.

Over a period of eight months in the city of San Francisco, $4,500 was collected in fees by inspectors $3,000 of this amount was from owners who were operating stolen tire trucks on automobile registration plates in attempting to defraud the state of the weight fees due by law.

Inspectors from the department on a trip up the coast in July, 1922, to the cities of Eureka and Crescent City, collected $2,395. Of this amount $665 was collected in the small town of Crescent City, while in the little community of Smith River, $76 was collected in delinquent registration fees.

The cost of operation of the motor vehicles used by the inspectors, which includes gas, oil, tire and repairs, averages only $0.34 a mile, while some cars are being operated as low as $0.2 a mile.

Mr. Chen, in leaving the Motor Vehicle Department, says that the appointment of W. H. Marsh as his successor by Governor Richardson will prove to be a most excellent selection. Mr. Marsh has been in the department several years, a cashier and Mr. Chen's observation is that he has been a loyal and faithful employee of the state and one who will give the very best service to the state.

NEW MOON SPORT MODEL IS BEAUTY

Motorists of Glendale, the new 6-40 Sport Moon, has arrived and is now on display at the showrooms of the W. R. Naylor Motor Company, 120 South Maryland avenue, agents for the Moon in Glendale.

"Every day in every way the Moon is getting better and better," says Mr. Naylor. "This is conclusively demonstrated by the 6-40 Sport. This car is without doubt one of the classiest automobiles on the market today. Its class does not end with its appearance, but continues right on to the endurance and economical upkeep of the machine.

"We believe there is not a car on the market today in the Moon class that may be operated as economically as can the machine we represent. It eats up miles, instead of gasoline. We are willing to place our car against any machine in the world of the same class."

This model Sport Moon is a beauty. Its body and upholstery is red, the wheels are disc and are maroon, while the fenders and running boards are black. This is finished up with a khaki top of the latest one-man design. Nothing is left out of this car. It is perfect.

In addition to selling automobiles, this concern sells service. The service that goes along with all Moon cars cannot be surpassed anywhere. The Moon owner must stay satisfied in every way.

The machine shop of this concern is complete in the extreme. All of the modern machinery reaping appliances have been installed, as well as the modern time-saving devices. While all makes of cars are repaired in this establishment, the firm naturally makes a specialty of the auto it represents. H. H. Kinner, one of the best known mechanics in Glendale, is in charge of the repair department of this firm.

This concern maintains night and day storage and does washing, polishing and greasing. The ten salient points of the Moon are as follows: Continental Red Seal motor, Delco starting and ignition, Timken axles, Spicer universal joints, Brown lip transmission, Borg and Beck clutch, Stromberg carburetor, Exide battery, Pedders radiator, German silver Gemmer steering gears.

STAR CARAVAN TO LEAVE TOWN SUNDAY

The owners of the Star car in Los Angeles county are invited to take part in the first Star owners' caravan, which will end its way on Sunday, January 21, to Brent's Mountain Crags, which is located in the Malibu mountains, near Calabasas.

The following notice is being sent to all Star owners in Glendale by the firm of Dilley & Armstrong of West Harvard street, agents for the Star in Glendale:

"You, your Star and three of your family or friends are invited to the first great day for Star owners in Los Angeles county.

"There'll be a hilarious time for all—contests and prizes for your Star, cups and auto accessories. There'll be hiking, dancing, swimming and a great big barbecue, prepared and served by the Southland's most famous cooks. From baby to grandpa, everybody will have a good time.

"We must know about how many will join us of this joyous throng on January 21. If the weather turns stormy, the event will be postponed a week.

"The caravan starts from Figueroa and Washington streets, Los Angeles, at 8:30 a. m. promptly. Come early—receive your number and enter the big reliability, economy and power contests."

Easy Lessons in Auction Bridge

Article No. 17

The Informative Double

Probably no change in the game of Auction since its inception has carried the widespread results or aroused greater interest than the Informative Double. In the days of Bridge, and also in the early days of Auction, the deal was of great importance. A dealer would bid No Trump and the other players with fairly strong hands but no justifiable bid, would have to pass. Such results were most irritating, so Major C. L. Patton, President of the Knickerbocker Whist Club of New York City, decided that a ceremonial double of one No Trump bid would convey information that the doubler also had a No Trump and would request partner to bid his longest and strongest suit. This suggestion at once proved popular and was adopted as the proper defense to the one No Trump bid.

Some years later, Mr. W. C. Whitehead, in New York, and Mr. Bryant McCampbell, in St. Louis, independent of one another, conceived the idea of doubling an original suit bid to inform partner that doubler had a No Trump hand but no stopper in the suit bid; and to ask partner to bid a No Trump if he had the suit stopped, or, if not, to bid his longest and strongest suit. This convention was also very popular and was at once adopted as part of the game.

Both the No Trump and the suit double have been carefully studied and their possibilities have been carefully analyzed. As a result, these doubles are now one of the most important factors of the game. There is not much doubt that the doubles have greatly increased public interest in the game and that its present widespread popularity is due to them. They liven up the game and make it much more interesting.

An informative double is one that informs partner that doubler has a certain type of hand and requests him to do certain things. A business double, on the other hand, is one made for the purpose of defeating the bid. It is very important that the novice learn to distinguish at once between these two doubles; otherwise he will be much confused.

An informative double is a double of an opponent's suit bid of one, two or three, or of a one No Trump bid, provided the double is made at first opportunity and partner has not yet bid or doubled. Such a double is meant as a denial of the suit doubled and requests partner to make a bid. It should be noted that if dealer bids one Heart, second hand doubles and third hand bids two Hearts, a subsequent double of two Hearts by second hand is still an informative double and a request for a bid by his partner. A business double, on the other hand, is a double of a suit bid of four or more, or of a No Trump bid of two or more; or a double after partner has bid or doubled; or a double after the doubler has already overbid an opponent's suit or No Trump bid—that is, when doubler has bid, rather than doubled, at his first opportunity.

These rules are now well defined and must be strictly followed by partner. The demand that the partner of the doubler bid his longest and strongest suit is obligatory and must be complied with, no matter how weak the suit or hand may be. For example, suppose the dealer bids one Heart and second hand doubles. His partner with the following hand:

Hearts—J, 4, 3
Clubs—10, 8, 7
Diamonds—J, 4, 2
Spades—9, 8, 7, 6

must bid one Spade. There is no choice and the convention is based on the certainty that partner will bid his long suit, however weak.

There may be hands, of course, where the partner of the doubler should pass, but only where by so doing he feels certain of defeating the contract. For example, suppose dealer bids one Spade and second hand doubles. His partner with the following hand:

Hearts—4, 2
Clubs—10, 8, 7, 4
Diamonds—7
Spades—Q, J, 9, 8, 6, 5

should pass, with the certainty of defeating the one Spade bid.

Or suppose the dealer bids one No Trump and second hand doubles. His partner with the following hand:

Hearts—A, 4, 2
Clubs—J, 7, 6, 2
Diamonds—K, 4, 2
Spades—K, J, 10

should pass. Holding a No Trump hand himself, he should easily defeat the bid of one No Trump which his partner has doubled.

The Once Over

Little Definitions for the Prospective Auto Buyer

(Something no visitor to the 1923 automobile shows should be without.)

Radiator—The part of the car that leaks.

Valves—Small compartments put into the engine for the purpose of holding carbon.

Carbon—(Ask any motorist.)

Cylinders—Something of which there are as a rule four, six, or eight.

Pistons—The things you see go up and down when you look at one of those exposed motors that are always exhibited at an auto show.

Piston rings—A figure of speech. If the piston makes a metallic clink as it completes each stroke, it is said that the piston rings.

Carburetor—A small and cantankerous contrivance put into every car to make it harder.

Spark plugs—Funny little things that are put into a motor to promote the "This is Clean-Up Week" movement. Autoists get great enjoyment taking these things out and then putting them back again after peering at them intently and scraping them with a nail file or a toothpick. Spark plugs are the part of the car you are supposed to first blame for anything that happens. They are assumed to be guilty until proved innocent. Much confusion is caused by the fact that new motorists often mistake them for cigar lighters.

Pump—(Any fool knows what a pump is.)

Generator—A mysterious mechanism located somewhere between the radiator and the rear axle. Very few autoists ever get to know just where it is, or what it is supposed to do, and, if so, whether it does it.

Timing gears—Something to do with the eight-day clock on the dash.

Ignition system—A system of ignition, presumably.

Cooling system—An apparatus for keeping autoists from the exploding point when driving with argumentative wives who find fault with the driving. In the latest models it is a small ice pack that can be clamped over the ears and forehead at a minute's notice.

Crank—An autoist's wife.

Fan—The thing you get your fingers caught in when monkeying around the darned engine at night.

Oil can—An autoist who bought a car last May two weeks before the prices began to be cut $200 and $300 at a stroke.

Transmission—Something under the floor.

Differential—Something no autoist ever really understands clearly.

Housing—(See Landlords.)

Crank shaft—The part of the car that is most expensive to fix when you break it.

Steering gear—The part of the car, according to the newspapers, which always goes wrong just before the accident.

Clutch—A driver's grip on a young lady companion.

Brake—The part that so often smells like father's overshoes burning.

Speedometer—A contrivance put on the dash so an autoist can tell how fast the motorcycle cop who is following him is going.

Battery—(1) A military organization; (2) a park; (3) a small black box located under the floor of the car into which you always forget to put water, as warned to do, in the instruction book.

Universal joint—A way of describing some of the gambling houses at a place like Monte Carlo.

Fender—The part of the car the taxicab first rips off.

Bumper—A steel guard on the back of the car for small boys to ride on.

Elliptical springs—Springs that are not elliptical.

Grease cups—Small containers located at various points on the car and which seldom have grease in them.

Tank—A derogatory term applied to a driver who drinks.

Oil gauges—Small round things that never work.

"Jack"—Something that is kept in the back of the car and that is always found to have been stolen when the owner looks for it.

Cord tires—The equivalent of about $300 a season.

Socoon—(See "All Baba and the Forty Thieves.")

SAFETY FOR PASSENGERS

When stopping in traffic to discharge passengers, it is well to insist upon having them dismount on the right hand side of the car.

Many a person has been seriously injured by being "winged" by passing vehicles when alighting on the left hand side of the car. While the driver is not responsible for his passengers under such conditions, their safety is a matter of great interest to him. Make them use the right doors.

HONOR SAVIOR TAXIS OF PARIS

Taxis that saved Paris

This taxicab—one of the huge fleet that was used by General Gallien in command of the fortifications of Paris in 1914, to rush his garrison to the left of the Allied line and defeat Von Kluck's drive on Paris—has been placed in the Invalides, in Paris, near the historic coach in which Marshal Foch, with representatives of the Allies, signed the armistice with the Germans in 1918. The taxicab was driven, with much solemnity, through the streets.

A FEW DON'TS FOR MOTORISTS

Don't use cheap oil; it is costly in the end.

An old hack-saw blade makes a good spark plug gauge for gap correction.

Don't keep running when you know your engine is excessively hot.

Don't fail to water the battery once a week; the battery is not a full-fledged camel.

Don't go unprepared in the way of tires or tire repair equipment. Don't try to economize by going without a spare tire or tube—it will save time and money in the end to be prepared.

A cold engine has practically no power.

Dry cells will quickly run down, if allowed to rattle.

Driving at night with a single light is against the law in many states.

READ BATTERY, THEN ADD WATER

In taking battery readings with the hydrometer, the operation should be performed before the distilled water is added to the solution, which will otherwise be diluted and a wrong reading given. Put in it takes some time to mix lighter, stays on top, and if the hydrometer is used say an hour after the water has been added it will take up only a weak solution, which is not the real one.

HANDLE PLUGS CAREFULLY
A crack in the porcelain weakens the compression, permits leakage of the electric current and completely spoils a quick fire.

WATER FOR RADIATOR
Never put hot water in a cool radiator or cold water in a hot radiator. Sudden expansion or contraction causes leaks.

SOME SIDE LIGHTS OF NEW YORK SHOW

The most notable tendency in design indicated by the exhibits at the New York auto show is the swing toward the light six. A number of companies are showing new light six models in the moderate price class.

There is a notable tendency toward cleanliness in design and accessibility of units for repair and replacement. The manufacturers are realizing that it is just as important to produce vehicles that can be easily and cheaply maintained as it to produce speed and economy of actual operation. This drift toward the production of cars that can be quickly and cheaply serviced is something that far-sighted students of motoring have been praying for these many years and the 1923 show indicates that their prayers are about to be answered.

An interesting development is the fitting of an air cleanser. This device—or, rather, these devices, for the two are different—are intended to remove the dust and grit from the air before it goes into the combustion chamber, thereby doing away with a considerable part of the carbon-forming elements that are now so troublesome.

There is a notable refining of body work evident at the present show. Some companies are showing entirely new body models of remarkable attractiveness.

One of the significant features of the exhibition is the number of closed models—sedan and coupe—at prices ranging only a little above those of the corresponding open models. Almost all the manufacturers in the medium and low price classes are showing these cheap closed models. It carries out prediction of the definite arrival of the closed model of this kind in the production majority a year hence.

BATTERY IN COLD WEATHER

Special care should be taken to keep the battery well charged and full of distilled water in cold weather. If this is not done the danger of the battery freezing is increased. A completely charged battery, whose specific gravity is about 1.275, freezes at 70 degrees below zero; if the specific gravity is 1.150 the battery will freeze at 20 degrees above zero.

LEAD IN WORKERS' AUTOS

Baltimore, Md., and Detroit, Mich., lead all other cities in the United States in the number of motor vehicles used to carry workers to and from their work each day. The commuters number 25,000 in each of these cities.

Some Interesting Automobile Facts

America is encircling the globe with automobiles. Automobiles are becoming more and more an all-weather, all-season vehicle.

The efficiency of the automobile is being increased more and more through simplification and interchangeability of parts and units.

The automobile is becoming more and more essential in social, commercial and industrial life.

The automotive industry is developing more and more along railroad lines.

The automobile is meaning more and more to millions of men and women in terms of human freedom.

HOW TO CLEAN AUTO REFLECTORS

Reflectors are silver-plated and are very easily scratched and injured. In polishing use new, clean chamamois, jeweler's rouge and alcohol. If the reflector has been exposed by a broken lens, it is well to wash it first with alcohol applied with a chamamois, care being taken to prevent scratching. Wipe dry with a fresh chamamois and with a dry chamamois apply rouge. The polishing should be done with a rotary motion. Be careful not to touch the polished surface with the bare fingers. This should be done about twice a year. Never run an automobile with a broken lens, it ruins the reflectors.

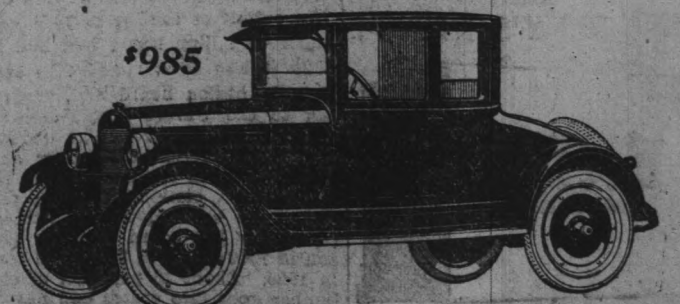

Throughout the United States there is a registration of 9,467,874 private passenger automobiles, 55,990 taxis, and buses and 1,096,605 motor trucks.

CLUB COUPE IS NEW MAXWELL IN GLENDALE

Seen at Glendale Motor Car Company on West Colorado Street

The latest addition to the new Maxwell line is the Club Coupe on exhibition now at the show rooms of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street.

It is upholstered in leather with broadcloth top lining, door glasses and side glasses drop down. There is an exceptionally large carrying space in the rear deck with Yale lock in the deck door. The distinctive Maxwell body design is apparent throughout. The body itself is a very fine piece of coach work.

Maxwell cars are all now equipped with the new three bearing motor, Remy starting, lighting and ignition and their new type rear axle.

"This car appears to be an ideal closed roadster or business car and we are now ready to make immediate delivery on the Club Coupe," says Mr. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company. "The Maxwell company has prepared for a big sale of this new model Club Coupe by increasing their production on this type of car."

"There are now seven models of the new Maxwell car," said Mr. Clark, "which makes it one of the most complete lines on the market."

Car Won't Start? Have "Mag" Charged

If the car won't start or if you have trouble with ignition, have your magneto points examined and magnets recharged. This should stop your ignition trouble. The timing gears may be loose and causing the knock in the front end of your motor, or it may be caused by a loose piston in your number one cylinder. However, your description is so brief that it would be hard to answer. As for your motor stalling, your low-speed carburetor adjustment may be too lean, or inlet valve guides loose, allowing an excessive amount of air to pass through which would have tendency to lean your mixture and destroy your slow speed adjustment. In cleaning your carburetor you may have sprung the float arm, which would raise the level in the bowl and cause it to flood. Would also advise you to examine your needle valve and see that it has a good seat.

SMALL TYPE IS ATTACKED BY PRINTERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 20.—Members of the executive council of the International Typographical Union have endorsed the movement of the national committee for the prevention of blindness to bring about less extensive use of small type in the printing of textbooks, advertisements and other educational and informative matter.

Considerable waste circulation results for advertisers and others, union officials said, through printing with type-faces which cause eye-strain. Weak and overworked eyes are common to a great portion of humanity nowadays, and many persons will cast aside a book, or advertisement, in which they might really be interested, because they know reading it will tire their eyes. It is believed that this waste more than offsets any saving made in crowding the matter into smaller space.

"Many advertisers learned this lesson long ago," said a member of the committee, "but there remain those who insist on trying to say much in little space. School book publishers, also, should bear in mind that incalculable harm may result from use of small type faces."

CURING BY SUGGESTION

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

She was one of the best behaved of little girls. Generous, kindly, truthful, she gave her parents no concern whatever as regarded character development. But she had a curious trick of behavior which gave them much concern.

For no reason apparent to them or to herself she had a habit of biting into her under lip. Frequently and vigorously she did this, with unfortunate effects on her appearance. Nor could her parents break her of the habit. Persuasion availed nothing. Neither did remonstrance. When threatened with punishment she could only lament, "I cannot help it." Knowing her as they did, her father and mother perforce accepted this plea in avoidance. Also, however, they forever sought a way to check the lip-biting.

They sought in vain until one day they chanced to read a book on suggestion, wherein reference was made to the increased suggestibility of the sleeping and the pre-sleeping states. Forthwith they decided to make a suggestion experiment on their little girl.

Every evening, as she was falling asleep, her mother talked to her. In a clear yet low tone she impressed upon the child the idea that she need not and would not bite into her lip the way she had been doing. Within a fortnight there was an evident change for the better. Patiently the mother persevered in her anti-biting suggestions. And soon it was not necessary to persevere. The child was cured.

Another child of other parents, a boy, developed a singular kleptomania. He did not steal because of poverty. His father, over-generous to a fault, kept him well supplied with pocket money. Nevertheless he had what seemed to be an irresistible impulse to take other persons' things.

This brought him into trouble at school, where his kleptomania found its most vigorous expression. His parents were given plainly to understand that they must break him of it or stand the consequences. Punishment, they knew, would avail nothing. They had tried that.

Now, acting on the hint of a friend, they tried suggestion. They not only impressed upon the boy, in his waking moments, the importance of honesty, but they talked honesty to him as he fell asleep at night. "You will no longer steal, you will no longer have any desire to steal," was the central idea they persistently reiterated. To their surprise no less than their joy, this suggestion "took." Their boy's kleptomania became a thing of the past.

With cases such as these in mind is it any wonder that authorities on the psychology of suggestion aver, with special reference to the use of suggestion by parents as applied to children during the drowsy state immediately preceding sleep:

"The whole life of the child can be practically reformed, bad habits can be supplanted by good ones, unbecoming conduct can be changed, undesirable tendencies can be modified and desires for a moral life, education and the noble things of life can be instilled.

"The best one to do this work is the parent, because of the intimate relation to the child, and because the child ordinarily has perfect confidence in the parent, especially the mother."

Parents, you are not so helpless as you think; if your child defies your exhortations. Try suggestion, both direct and indirect.

Sedulously set your child an example of earnest, industrious, self-forgetting, self-sacrificing behavior. In addition, as the child that worries you takes his nightly rest, transmit to the sub-conscious depths of his mind the ideas you long to see governing his conduct.

The result may be to you, as it has been to other parents, a decisive demonstration that the age of miracles is not past.

LUMBER OUTPUT DECLINE

There has been a fairly steady decline in our national output of lumber during the past few years. The output of lumber in 1906 was about 46 billion board feet and in 1920 it had been reduced to less than 34 billion board feet, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The decline in the production of lumber and the increase in population have resulted in a striking drop in the per capita consumption of lumber from over 500 board feet per person in 1906 to about 320 board feet in 1920. About 16 per cent of our lumber goes into crates and boxes. The cut of timber is decreasing in all of the eastern states and is increasing in practically every state west of the Great Plains. The principal source of softwood lumber for the entire nation will soon have shifted to the west coast and the average freight cost paid by the home builder or manufacturer will have advanced to a new and higher level, says the department.

Willard as He Looked When in New York to Seek Dempsey Match

Despite the outcome of their Toledo battle, Jess Willard still claims he is a better man than Jack Dempsey. This photograph was made the day Willard arrived in New York City to induce the champion and Promoter Tex Rickard to give him a chance to win back the world's heavyweight title. Jess had a noticeable double chin, but he declared he would have no trouble getting into better condition than he was at the time he lost the championship.

EASY DIVORCES OBTAINABLE IN YUCATAN

By FREDERICK G. NEUMEIER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, Mexico (By mail to United Press).—Yucatan, the "land of Topsy Turvy" is the home of the picture divorce.

The opposite of the "picture brides" is found in this socialist state of Mexico.

Divorces are given for the asking by any party, with or without cause. Children and maintenance for wives and property rights are respected.

The original law provides for six months' residence for foreigners before a divorce could be granted, but this was believed by the socialist officials to be a queer provision in a socialist state, which is supposed to be international. So the law was changed and now a foreigner may acquire a residence for divorce purposes in one day.

In certain cases divorces can be obtained by power of attorney given to another person and pictures of the parties in question submitted.

Since sailing to Yucatan is cheap from the United States and a visit to that state gives an opportunity to see the famous ruins of Uxmal and Chichen-Itza, it is expected that when the law becomes generally known Reno and other divorce colonies will suffer heavily.

However, with all the liberties of the divorce laws not twelve divorces were granted during the past year.

Those going to Yucatan are advised to take along a Red Card.

Bothersome rattles may be quickly overcome by inserting pieces of rubber between the two vibrating or chafing surfaces. An old inner tube can be used for this purpose.

WISE FORETHOUGHT

A motorist should place a private or secret mark on his car as soon as he purchases it. This will help as a means of identification if the car is stolen.

WHY AUTOMOBILE FUSES "BLOW"

Whether on the automobile or elsewhere, fuses blow out because too much electricity flows through them. Any wire or conductor gets warm when electricity flows through it. Fuses are made of an alloy of metals which melts at low temperature, and are put into the circuit to protect the entire system, by melting and breaking the circuit when too much electricity flows through it. The causes for too heavy a flow are many, but the most common are short circuits, grounds and high voltage. Shorts and grounds are usually caused by defective insulation; these can frequently be located by an examination of the wires; broken insulation gives a great deal of trouble. Tape all places on the wires where the covering is worn or broken. If the voltage of the generator runs too high have it regulated. There is no voltmeter on the instrument board, but if the ammeter reads high it indicates that the voltage is probably high, on the automobile.

The volume of material used in the construction of durable highways by the State of Pennsylvania in 1919, 1920, 1921 and 1922 is 20 per cent greater than the total volume of the material in the largest of all the Egyptian pyramids. Cheops.

Fabric Tires

Thousands of customers come back to us year after year for more fabric tires because they get good service. We handle three grades: The Western Giant, which is the finest material and workmanship procurable, guaranteed 8000 miles; the Pharis, which is standard quality, full size and weight and our "old standby" since 1914, guaranteed 7000 miles; also the Nebraska, a really good, serviceable tire at an extremely low price, guaranteed 6000 miles.
